VON BERNSTORFF IS NOW WAITING FOR INSTRUCTIONS

Is Sure of Speedy and Wholly Satisfactory End to Submarine Controversy.

RETURNS TO NEW YORK

Peaceful Adjustment of Dispute May Mean American Mediation for Peace.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador here, will leave Washington for New York, to await instructions from his government which he confidently expects will lead to negotiations that will bring a speedy and wholly satisfactory conclusion to the entire controversy between the United States and Germany over the question of submarine warfare. Unless the situation in Berlin wholly changes before the dispatches are sent, the ambassador believes he will be authorized to reopen informal discussions with Secretary Lansing to the end that a note may be framed by the German government entirely satisfactory to the United States.

So far as the Department of State is concerned, formal presentation of the Arabic case to Germany awaited receipt from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin of the German admiralty report on the destruction of the ship. Dispatches from Berlin tonight, said the report might be made any day or might be delayed a fortnight. The last of the German submarines operating south of Ireland will not return to port before that time. Until the admiralty statement is received, however, and the Arabic case disposed of, it is unlikely that a discussion of the broader question of submarine warfare will be reopened.

Believed Berlin is Anxious.

In German circles here it is firmly believed that the Berlin government is anxious to bring to a quick and a friendly termination the whole discussion over the submarine campaign. The visit of Count von Bernstorff to Washington, acting on instructions from Berlin, is viewed as conclusive proof that the liberal element of the German government has triumphed and that every effort will be made to meet the views of President Wilson as expressed to the ambassador in an interview soon after the Lusitania was destroyed.

As to the Arabic case, it was positively stated tonight that whatever the German admiralty report might be, the Berlin government would give assurances that its submarine commanders had received explicit instructions that no passenger ships be attacked without warning.

It is believed the German government will seek to make it clear that a national policy of the warfare against passenger ships has been suspended. Already offers of reparation for American lives lost with the ship have been made informally and Ambassador Bernstorff feels that barring adjustment of minor details, the friction between the two countries is at an end.

New Hope for Peace.

Out of the relaxing tension of the situation a new hope for peace in Europe has sprung. German observers here have noted that there is a group in each country which sees possibilities of American mediation behind peaceful adjustment of the American-German dispute. With one concession won from the belligerents by diplomatic means—the security of the lives of neutrals on the high seas—it is thought possible that other proposals may follow with restoration of peace as their object. The ascendency of the Liberal element in Germany, it is said, lends color to that view so far as Germany is concerned.

ROOSEVELT ISSUES LENGTHY REPLY TO SECRETARY GARRISON

He Also Takes Issue on the "Unpreparedness" of the Fleet.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt tonight issued another lengthy statement in reply to Secretary of War Garrison in the controversy brought about by Mr. Roosevelt's Plattsburg speech. Colonel Roosevelt took issue with the Secretary on the administration's issue towards Mexico and Haiti. He also called attention to what he called the unpreparedness of our fleet, saying in part:

"I point out to him that for nearly two years in 1913 and 1914 the ships of the navy were never exercised in fleet maneuvering, and, as I am reliably informed, were never exercised in fleet or squadron gunnery.

"The very great falling off in the gunnery that was shown by the results last spring and the early part of the summer are directly due to this culpable misconduct in handling our navy; and it represents unpreparedness of the very worst kind because unpreparedness that takes the shape of letting the weapons that have been made ready utterly deteriorate is even worse than failure to provide new weapons."

EPWORTH LEAGUE SESSIONS END

Conference Had Representatives From All Quarters of the Earth.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 28.—With the address of Dr. O. E. Brown, of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., the Epworth League conference of the Southern Methodist church, which has been in session at Lake Junaluska, came to an end tonight. The Epworth League meeting closes the conference season at Lake Junaluska. Four conferences have been held and all have been attended by delegates from various sections of the earth.

ARMIES OF RUSSIA EVADING CAPTURE

Are as Far as Ever From the Invading Germans.

AIR FIGHTING IN WEST

German Aviators Attempt Attack on Paris But Are Driven Back With Loss of One Machine—Allies Drop Bombs on Towns.

London, Aug. 28.—The Germanic allies have not yet exhausted their efforts to smash completely the Russian army. While the Germans in the Baltic provinces under Field Marshal von Hindenburg have again become aggressive and are attempting to drive the Russians back to Dvina, the Austro-Hungarians with the assistance of the Germans have taken the offensive in southeastern Galicia, and, according to Berlin and Vienna, have succeeded in breaking through the Russian positions on the Zlota Lipa river, north and south of Brzezany.

Along the rest of the front the Germans claim to be gaining more ground but apparently they are as far as ever from their main endeavor—the capture or destruction of the Russian armies. The latter, although pressed hard at many points, continue their orderly retreat, leaving little or nothing that might be used by the invaders. Some rear guards which were left behind with machine guns to retard the Austro-German advance, have been overwhelmed and captured, but the guns, munitions and main forces invariably have kept out of reach of the relentless pursuers.

Whether the Russians will be able to make a stand in the new position which they are said to have prepared, the next few days should tell. There are reports that reinforcements are being sent from the east to the western and Serbian fronts but military writers express the opinion that so long as the Russian armies remain intact, it would be dangerous for the Austrians and Germans to detach troops for operations elsewhere.

There is no evidence of a German offensive in the West, while Serbian advices report the Austro-German force gathered at Orsova for a rumored effort to force a war through Serbia and Bulgaria to render aid to Turkey, is not of the strength reported.

On the western front the activity of the airmen continues. Six German aviators attempted an attack on Paris, but were driven off with the loss of one machine, while the Allies, apparently the British, threw bombs on Ostend, Middlekirke and Bruges. On the dunes at Middlekirke the Germans have some of their most formidable batteries for use against attacks from sea, while at Bruges the objective of the airmen would be the canal and docks which are used extensively by the Germans for transport purposes.

The Balkan situation still creates a great deal of interest and confidence is expressed that with Serbia showing a compromising attitude it will be settled to the advantage of the Entente allies. Serbia's reply to the Allies, however, has not yet been delivered, and Bulgaria, Greece and Rumania are holding their hands until the contents are known.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION AS TO AMERICAN SHIPMENTS

American Concerns Complain of Neutral Shipments Being Held Up.

Washington, Aug .28.—A request for information as to progress of private negotiations for the safe conduct of American shipments from neutral countries abroad was forwarded to London today by the British embassy. Persistent reports that brokers in London were securing permits for such shipments have led to considerable activity by the trade advisers of the State Department which had failed thus far to secure definite results.

JOHN D. LONG, FORMER NAVY SECRETARY, DEAD

Had Also Served as Governor of Massachusetts

He Was Appointed Head of the Navy Department by President McKinley in 1897, Serving Through Spanish-American War.

Hingham, Mass., Aug. 28.—John D. Long, former Secretary of the Navy and former Governor of Massachusetts, died at his home here tonight.

John D. Long was Secretary of the Navy during the Spanish-American war. It was he who is on record as having dispatched the famous message of April 25, 1898, to Commodore George Dewey, commanding the Asiatic squadron, then awaiting orders at Hong Kong. The message read:

"War commenced between Spain and the United States. Proceed at once to the Philippine Islands. Capture or destroy the Spanish ships. Use the utmost endeavor."

It was on the sixth day after the receipt of these orders that Dewey reported his great victory in the battle of Manila Bay.

Mr. Long was called to head the Navy Department when President McKinley took office in March, 1897, and also served a year in the cabinet of President Roosevelt.

INDIAN PRINCE IS ON THE ROTTERDAM

Apprehends He May be Captured by the Germans.

SECRET PASSENGER

Boarded Liner With His Queen and Servants, Days Before Sailing from New York—Is Returning to India.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Library of Congress

New York, Aug. 28.—Somewhere in the dangerous waters that wash the British Isles the steamship Rotterdam is nearing the port of Falmouth tonight with an Indian Prince aboard whose chief apprehension is that he may be captured by the Germans and held for ransom. He is Jagatjit Singh Bahadur, Maharajah of Kapurthala, whose rich principality lies in the Punjab of India, and reckoned one of the wealthiest and most powerful of Indian rulers; and he sailed secretly from this port August 21 on his way back to his kingdom after a two months' tour of the United States and Canada.

With the Maharajah are his Queen—the Maharanee—a Spanish beauty whom he wed in Madrid five years ago; his secretary, M. Roy, a considerable retinue of servants and an American girl, Miss Maggie Cullen, to whom the Maharanee took a liking while in the West.

Friends of the royal couple are very much afraid that German submarine commanders might hear of the Maharajah's departure from New York were it published here and knowing of his great wealth, might lie in wait for the ship, take him off and hold him for ransom. So it was arranged that he should leave the United States secretly and take the Rotterdam, a Holland-American liner, for Falmouth.

To make certain that no one, save a few close friends and officials, should know of his plans, the Maharajah and his party boarded the steamer two days before she was due to sail and remained aboard in seclusion.

They made the trip to the Hoboken pier in a closed automobile with drawn curtains at night, and after they were taken to their quarters in the royal suite, the pier was closed, until the vessel's departure, to everyone not intending to sail. Meantime to preserve outward appearances, the Maharajah's summer residence, a big house on Long Island, rented for the season, was kept open as usual.

The Indian servants remained on the premises and those whom he took back in his retinue were quietly replaced with others so that neighbors would not notice the change. To allay any suspicion of the Maharajah's departure, an interview was given out in his name, four days after he had sailed, telling that he preferred Broadway's lights to everything else. Thus, while he was in mid-ocean, by the published statement attributed to him, it was made to appear that he was still enjoying himself in this country.

ANOTHER SHIPMENT GOLD AND SECURITIES FROM ENGLAND

Train of Six Steel Express Cars, Guarded, En Route to New York.

Springfield, Mass, Aug. 28.—A treasure train containing millions of dollars in gold and securities, shipped from London by way of Halifax, N. S., passed through New England tonight on its way to New York. In the six steel express cars containing the second of a series of gold shipments resigned to strengthen British credit in the United States, 38 armed guards kept watch while a pilot train was sent in front to make sure that the roadbed was safe.

The train entered the United States through Vanceboro, Maine, and sped across New England to New York by way of Albany. It was expected to arrive in New York early Sunday morning.

DOUBLE RANGE OF MAIN GUNS ON BATTLESHIPS

American Naval Experts Plan Greater Efficiency.

Main Batteries on Battleships Hereafter Will be Thirty Degrees, Which Will Enable Firing Far Beyond Horizon.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Main batteries of American battleships hereafter will be given an elevation of 30 degrees, virtually doubling the present angle of fire, according to a decision by Navy Department experts after close study, it is said, of all available information on naval engagements of the European war.

The effect of the change will be to increase materially the range of the navy's 14-inch guns and also make gun fire more accurate in rough weather. The guns now have sufficient range to reach anything within the limit of vision at sea. The added elevation will enable them to hurl shells at objects far beyond the horizon or over hills of considerable size in bombarding land fortifications.

A new problem has been presented as a result of the high angle fire, and navy experts are studying methods of increasing deck armor against the plunging fire of shells hurled from a great distance.

PANAMA ARTILLERY FORCES INCREASED

Full Gun Crews Will Defend Coasts at Each End of Canal.

PLANS OF THE ARMY

Full Garrisons for the Canal Defenses Determined Upon—Congress May be Asked for Big Increase in Coast Artillery Corps.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The coast artillery force on duty at the Panama Canal will be increased to full strength of 28 companies or about 2,000 men, it was learned today, the former policy of maintaining the big gun crews at about half strength in peace time having been abandoned.

Fortifications of the canal zone are rapidly nearing completion. Originally it was planned to man them with 14 companies under the theory that it was improbable that the defenses at both ends of the waterway would be attacked simultaneously and the canal and railroad made rapid shifting of the forces to the danger point possible. Under the general readjustment plans of the army, full garrisons for the canal defenses have been determined upon and it is considered certain that a big increase in the coast artillery corps will be asked for when Congress re-assembles, as the doubling of the canal forces will materially reduce the forces in territorial United States.

Plans are now before the army fortifications board for the equipment of new fortifications of the first class with 16-inch rifles, having a range of about 20 miles. It is not proposed to substitute these gigantic weapons for the present 12-inch and 14-inch batteries, but in all new works and when the smaller guns are worn out and discarded, the 16-inch rifles will be installed.

One 16-inch rifle, built several years ago, has been ordered installed in the canal zone defenses. It is understood, however, that a newer type of gun has been developed by army engineers with increased range and striking power.

OBSERVANCE OF LAFAYETTE'S BIRTHDAY CALLED FOR SEPT. 6.

Committee Asks That Celebration be General Throughout America.

New York, Aug. 28.—A call for a general American observance of LaFayette's birthday on September 6th was issued here today by a volunteer committee, of which Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France, is honorary chairman. Inasmuch as the anniversary falls on labor day the committee commends to public attention the opportunity thus afforded to honor the memory of a man through whose efforts the "sympathy of France for the cause of freedom was given effective expression" in the struggle for American independence.

War News at a Glance

While Petrograd unofficially expresses the opinion that the Russians are on the eve of digging themselves in and making a stand on a new front, there are no indications as yet of a halt in their retrograde movement or of any let-up in the force of the Teutonic on-rush.

On the contrary, the Austro-German offensive has broken out again in a sector where there has been comparative inactivity for the better part of two months past—in Eastern Galicia, where the lines along the Dneister, the Zlota Lipa and the Gnila Lipa have changed only little since early in July when the Teutonic armies swung north and began the closing in movement which resulted in the Russian withdrawal from the Warsaw salient.

The Russian lines, Berlin claims, have now been broken along the Zlota Lipa and the Russians are in full retreat under energatic Austro-German pursuit. Apparently it is the Teutonic aim completely to clear Galicia of Russian troops.

The retreat of Grand Duke Nicholas armies from Brest-Litovsk and the line to the north is being harassed by Field Marshal von Mackensen's armies and those of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, the latter having penetrated the Bielovieah forest, while southeast of Bialystok General von Eichhorn has pushed eastward as far as the town of Narew.

In the north, however, where Vilna and Dvinsk are at stake, the Russians are offering a stiff resistance. At some points here, apparently they have even taken the offensive. Berlin declares their attacks ware repulsed.

On the front in France, the artillery and the airmen have been active but infantry sallies from the trenches have been lacking. Berlin says that French air attacks on Ostend, Middelkirke and Bruges were without success and that in Muelheim, Baden, three persons killed in a bomb attack were civilians.

Little change in the situation in the Dardanelles is indicated by recent advices, both official and unofficial. The losses of the Entente allies in the attack made at Anafarta while the recent landing was taking place are declared by a correspondent at Turkish headquarters to have been extremely heavy, the killed alone being estimated at about 5,000.

Conferences are in progress between British government officials and representatives of the Welsh miners, among whom there is dissatisfaction over the arbitration award following the recent coal strike. Several thousand operatives already have gone out despite the advice of their leaders, 4,000 being added yesterday to the number on strike.

SECOND STEP FOR PEACE IN MEXICO

Conferees Will Meet Again Probably Next Week.

VILLA FAVORS APPEAL

Call for Reassembling of Pan-American Delegates May Be Made as Soon as Carranza's Reply Reaches Washington.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The next step in the effort to bring peace in Mexico will be considered by the Pan-American conference probably next week. A majority of the military and political leaders in Mexico have replied to the appeal of the conference for a peace agreement. It was officially announced today that the conferees would be reassembled soon, although a definite date for the meeting has not been set.

General Carranza's reply is expected early next week and it is understood the call for the meeting will be issued as soon as that is in Mr. Lansing's hand. Carranza officials here said the reply probably would be sent as soon as General Carranza reached Mexico City to re-establish his capital there.

Responses favorable to the appeal have come from General Villa and all his military commanders, members of his cabinet and political advisers.

All replies from Carranza generals and advisers have referred the decision to their chief. All Mexican leaders outside the Carranza and Villa factions have accepted the offer of the Pan-American conference in arranging for a convention to be held in neutralized Mexican territory for the purpose of creating a provision government to arrange general elections.

Mexican leaders favoring the Pan-American plan are located principally in the north and west of Mexico; those opposing it are in East and Central Mexico.

Before another conference is held Carranza's adherents are hopeful that General Obregon will have captured Torreon toward which he is said to be advancing. Villa is said to be massing his forces at Torreon to meet this attack. A decisive battle there may have a far-reaching effect on the future of the republic.

PLEADS CAUSE OF RED CROSS.

Taft Speaks at Celebration of Red Cross Day at Exposition.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—William H. Taft, former President, pleaded today the cause of the American Red Cross at exercises celebrating Red Cross day at the Panama Pacific Exposition.

He urged a membership of millions, more funds and neutrality in giving. He praised Americans for their ready response to calls for relief funds when the European war began, but deprecated the fact that two-thirds of the funds given were disbursed by relief bodies; organized on the spur of the moment, while the Red Cross stood ready with a trained organization to do the work.

Mr. Taft said he did not undervalue "the sweets of publicity and popular applause" in promoting good work. But he thought the desire on the part of donors for publicity was harmful when it led to a division of forces and an increase of unnecessary expense.

POLK IS COUNSELLOR OF STATE DEPARTMENT

Accepts Post Tendered Him by President Wilson.

Will Fill Office Which Has Been Vacant Since Secretary Lansing Became Secretary of State—Is New York Man.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The selection of Frank L. Polk, corporation counsel of New York city, to be counsellor of the State Department, was formally announced tonight by Secretary Lansing. The President has tendered the position to Mr. Polk, who has accepted.

Mr. Polk will succeed Mr. Lansing, who became secretary on the resignation of William Jennings Bryan last June. The counsellor's office has been vacant since Mr. Lansing took his place in the cabinet.

While John Bassett Moore was counsellor, he acted for the Secretary in all matters in the latter's absence from Washington and the rule continued in effect while Mr. Lansing held the post. Diplomatic callers were referred to the counsellor, and when matters of pressing importance were pending, such as the correspondence with Germany over the Lusitania case, the counsellor was called into conference at cabinet meetings. While it has not been definitely decided, it is virtually certain that the rule will continue in effect after Mr. Polk takes office.

NEW HANOVER TOPS ENTIRE SOUTHLAND

Leads All Rural Counties in School Sanitation.

TRIBUTE TO OFFICIALS

United States Public Health Service, in Public Report, Points to This County's Remarkable Record in Sanitary Progress.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—The United States Public Health Service today paid a high tribute to the officials of New Hanover county for its progress in sanitation. Not long ago, the report says, every home in Cape Fear township had a toilet and now Masonboro township has equalled that record. In October of last year 14 per cent of the white families and 47 per cent of the negro population had no toilets of any description.

"This progress," the report says, "is very significant when it is considered that approximately one-half of all farm homes in the Gulf-Atlantic states have no sanitary convenience of this type.

"The County Board of Education has now provided for every rural school in the entire county a sanitary toilet with concrete tanks. So far as statistics are available at the present moment, no other rural county in the entire South is equal to New Hanover in its school sanitation. If any other county has as good school sanitation as New Hanover, it certainly should not hide its light under a bushel."

In discussing the striking features of the New Hanover work, the public health report mentions in the first instance the intelligence with which the New Hanover inhabitants are going about this work. Among the other striking features may be mentioned the fact that the actual field work is done by sanitary policemen, also that the work is accomplished by persuasive methods instead of through the police courts; further, that the ideals held up to the public are high despite the fact that these standards are not attained immediately in all cases.

"During the year 1914, there have been 1,856 flush closets installed in the city, an average of 154 per month, thus reducing very greatly the amount of soil pollution."

AMERICAN TRADE WILL LOSE MILLIONS ON CHRISTMAS GOODS

British Order Will Not Let Great Quantities of German Wares Pass.

Berlin, via London, Aug. 28.—American business men in Germany are taking the gloomiest view of the fate of great quantities of goods ordered in Germany for the American Christmas trade. They say that the loss of these goods will amount to millions.

Orders totaling about $50,000,000 for such wares as toys, Bohemian glassware, bronzes, Christmas cards and optical specialties had been placed for summer delivery, it is stated, this being the usual practice in order to give American wholesale dealers an opportunity to place the goods. The articles are all of a seasonal value and become virtually valueless unless delivered immediately. However, the British order in council, although not effective when the orders for the goods were placed, prevents such a delivery.

The order in council also is playing havoc with golf supplies. Golf balls and clubs are being exhausted rapidly and ardent golfers are objurgating England and planning an appeal to their fellow enthusiasts in America.

PLOT TO BLOW UP GARY, IND., POWDER FACTORY

Kayser's Sentiments Perhaps Led to Murder.

Authorities Strengthen Belief Dead Man's Utterances and Activities Caused Crime—Chief of Police Threatened.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 28.—Threats to kill Chief of Police Heintz if he continued to investigate the murder of Rev. Edmund A. Kayser, and the alleged discovery of a plot to blow up the Aetna Powder Company's plant at Gary, where quantities of war explosives were manufactured, today led the authorities who were endeavoring to establish a motive for the crime and apprehend its perpetrators to strengthen their belief that the slan pastor was a victim of his pro-German utterances and activities.

Chief Heintz today received a letter warning him that his life would be taken if he pushed the inquiry too far. The police official accepted the threat lightly and asserted that he considered the missive a clew, intimating he knew its origin.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 28.—George Williams, age 25, an aeronaut, was killed late today when he jumped out of his parachute to escape falling into a forest. His neck was broken.

LOW WAGES FOUND TO BE CAUSE FOR INDUSTRIALUNREST

Compulsory and Oppressive Methods Used Against the Workers of the Nation.

IS MENACE TO PEACE

Report of Industrial Relations Commission, to be Presented to the Congress.

Kansas City, Kan., Aug. 28.—Low wages was found to be one of the basic causes of industrial unrest in the report which Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations, and the labor members of that body, will present to Congress as a result of the commission's two years' investigation into the subject. The report, embodying the personal findings of Mr. Walsh and concurred in by Commissioner John B. Lennon, James O'Connell and Austin B. Garretson, was made public here today.

"The workers of the nation, through compulsory and oppressive methods, legal and illegal, are denied the full product of their toil," says the report, and the resulting industrial dissatisfaction said to have reached "proportions that already menace the social good will and the peace of the nation."

Responsibility for the condition under which they live was placed primarily upon the workers themselves, who "blind to their collective strength and often times deaf to the cries of their followers have suffered exploitation and the invasion of their most sacred rights without resistance."

The report in part follows:

The Commission's Report.

"We find the basic cause of the industrial dissatisfaction to be low wages, or, stated in another way, the fact that the workers of the nation through compulsory and oppressive methods, legal and illegal are denied the full product of their toil.

"We further find that unrest among the workers in industry has grown to proportions that already menace the social good will and the peace of the nation. Citizens numbering millions smart under a sense of injustice and oppression. The extent and depth of industrial unrest can hardly be exaggerated.

"Employers have created and maintained small private armies and used their forces to intimidate and suppress their striking employes by deporting, imprisoning, assaulting and killing their leaders. Elaborate spy systems are maintained to discover and forestall the movements of the enemy. The use of state troops in policing strikes has bred a bitter hostility to the militia system.

Rightfully Accused.

"Courts, legislatures and governors have been rightfully accused of serving employers to the defeat of justice, and while counter charges come from the employers and their agents with almost negligible exceptions, it is the wage earners who believe, assert and approve that the very institutions of their country have been perverted by the power of the employer.

"We find the unrest here described to be but the latest manifestation of the age-long struggle of the race for freedom of opportunity for every individual to live his life to its highest ends.

"The unrest of the wage earner has been augmented by recent changes and developments in industry. Chief of these are the rapid and universal introduction and extension of machinery by which unskilled workers may be substituted for the skilled, and an equally rapid development of means of rapid transportation and communication by which private capital has been enabled to organize in great corporations.

"Now, more than ever, the profits of great industries under centralized control pour into the coffers of stockholders and directors who never have so much as visited the plants and who perform no service in return.

"We find that many entire communities exist under the arbitrary economic control of the corporation officials charged with the management of an industry or group of industries and we find that in such communities political liberty does not exist and its forms are hollow mockeries.

The Workers Are Responsible.

"The responsibility for the conditions which have been described above, we declare rests primarily upon workers, who, blind to their collective strength and often times deaf to the cries of their followers have suffered exploitations and the invasion of their most sacred rights without resistence. A large measure of responsibility must, however, attach to the great mass of citizens. But, until the workers themselves realize their responsibility, no action whether governmental or altruistic, can work any genuine and lasting improvement.

"We call upon our citizenship regardless of politics or economic conditions to use every means of agitation, all avenues of education and every department and function of government to eliminate the injustices exposed by this committee to the end that each laborer may 'secure the whole product of his labor.'"

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Inability to hit with men on bases and poor base running on the part of the Chicago White Sox cost them the second game of the series with Philadelphia today. The score was 4 to 2 in favor of the visitors.

Bunched hits coupled with a wild pitch, two errors and a base on balls gave Philadelphia its runs.

The locals had several opportunities to go ahead of their opponents but could not make good. With the bases filled in the fifth inning Jackson was called out on strikes when a hit would have scored a run or two. Stupid base running also enabled the visitors to make four double plays which shattered the hopes of Chicago. Knowlson was wild but was given perfect support. Benz was hit hard and Faber had one bad inning. Lajoie led in the attack against Chicago with three hits.

TY COBB CELEBRATES TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the great baseball player in the world, celebrated his tenth anniversary as a major league player on August 26th. The fans of Detroit presented Ty with a bouquet of roses.

Cobb's path of fame, which he blazed for himself, probably has never been equalled in the history of the game. For eight successive seasons he has been the champion batsman of the American League. His average for this season is around .380, and it seems almost a human impossibility for any of his rivals to wrest the title from him this season. No batter has ever made such a record.

It was on August 26, 1905, a tall, nervous appearing boy of 19 years from the Augusta club, in a Class C league, donned a Tiger uniform and was sent to center field by Manager Bill Armour to replace Dick Cooley. The player was Cobb; Cooley never got his job back. Cobb became a regular on that day and has never felt the sting of being benched.

It is said that only once in this long time has the mighty Georgia Peach been replaced by a pinch hitter. When Cobb was a youngster, Doc White, of the Chicago club, rode his Angora incessantly. Catcher Payne was sent to bat for Cobb against White on this one occasion. In 1906, his first full season, Cobb hit 320, which has been his low mark.

Ty has always played in the outfield; either right or center. Only once in his long career did he play elsewhere. On this occasion he acted as volunteer second baseman, and Cobb, as well as Manager Jennings, admitted after the game that Cobb's first manager made no mistake, nor did the infield lose anything, when they made an outfielder of him.

LUMBERTON DEFEATS EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHAMPIONS

Red Springs Beaten in Fastest Game Ever Seen at Lumberton.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 28.—In the last game of the season, Lumberton defeated Red Springs, the Eastern Carolina champions, here today by the score of 2 to 1. Foster, for the locals, was a puzzle to the champs, allowing only six widely scattered hits and fanning thirteen. Lingle also pitched a fine game. The features of the game were the lightning double play by Strain, Emery to Fox, and the fast playing of both teams. Foster fanned the first six to face him. This was the fastest game ever played on the local grounds, only one hour and twenty minutes being taken up. Umpire, Ball. Attendance, 700.

Brooklyn, Aug. 28.—Brooklyn beat Pittsburgh twice today and moved close to Philadelphia in the race for the National League pennant. Both games were pitchers' battles and in both the Brooklyn box men figured prominently with the bat.

Rucker made two hits off Harmon in the first game which the Superbas won by 2 to 1, in a ninth inning finish. With the score tied in the last half of the ninth, Harmon walked Stengel who came home when Hinchman let Wheat's single roll to the right field wall.

One of Pfeffer's two hits helped his teammates win the second 3 to 0. Pfeffer fanned Wagner, Baird and Gerber in succession in the seventh.

Boston, Aug. 28.—Boston took the opener from Cincinnati today 2 to 0 after a pitchers' battle between Rudolph and Toney. Boston got a run in the third when Evers doubled, was sacrificed along by Snodgrass and scored on Magee's single to center. In the fifth a pass to Evers, with an infield out and Magee's sacrifice put the Boston captain on third. Schmidt's single scored him. Herzog had three hits in four times at bat.

Humphries also pitched one ball for Chicago but New York scored an earned run in the second inning on singles by Doyle, Robertson and Merkle.

SEVENTY-THREE CONTESTANTS SURVIVE GOLF PRELIMINARIES.

Detroit, Aug. 28.—Seventy-three contestants, almost evenly divided between the East and West, today survived the preliminary qualification round of 18 holes, medal play—first test of skill in the national amateur golf championship tournament. Davisson Herron, of Pittsburg, and D. E. Sawyer, of Wheaton, Ill., each turned in low cards of 73. Sixty golfers had scores of 84 or better and the 13 who tied with 85 also were permitted to enter the second preliminary round of medal play Monday.

There were few surprises and no important upsets. Herron's performance attracted attention partly because he was not expected to be low medalist and partly because he made history for the Detroit Country Club course by completing the 13th hole of 380 yards in two. A spectacular mid-iron shot enabled him to beat par by two strokes. Arthur V. Lee, of Detroit, after going out in 46, refused to be disheartened and came sailing home in 36—a feat that was not equalled.

RED SPRINGS TEAM COMING

Amateur Champions of Eastern North Carolina Will Play Three Days This Week in Wilmington.

The baseball team of Red Springs, who claims the amteur championship of Eastern North Carolina, will be in Wilmington for three games with a picked local team from the City League which will be played at Sunset Park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Arrangements for the games were made last night by Mr. John W. Blomme in a long distance telephone conversation with Mr. Ben Townsend, manager of the Red Springs team. This team is said to be a strong one and has already made engagements to meet the pennant winning team of the Carolina League for three games in Charlotte on September 9, 10 and 11.

The City League is composed of four teams and it will be possible to select from these a strong aggregation of players. The games will be called promptly at 4 o'clock on each day and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. Cars will be run at intervals of ten minutes for the convenience of the public. The charge for admission will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children for any part of the grounds.

The diamond at Sunset Park will be put in first class shape and the local players will practice during the first of the week so as to be in fine fettle to meet the visitors.

TWO TEAMS ARE TIED IN CITY LEAGUE RACE.

Giants Finished in Third Place—Second Game Shortened.

In one of the prettiest games of the season, the Y. M. C. A. team of the City League defeated the Giants yesterday by the close score of 2 to 1, putting the Y. M. C. A. a tie in the race for the pennant. Features of the game were the pitching of Register and Shepard and the fielding of both sides. Register allowed only four scattered hits and Shepard only three.

The second game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of rain and also by agreement of the managers. The muddy condition of the grounds being considered, both teams played fine ball. Both pitchers allowed only a few scattered hits and only a few errors were made. The score was W. L. I. 2; Boys' Brigade 1.

The movement, as proposed, contemplates the issuance of invitations to North Carolinians who have left the State to return for a visit during the week specified.

Deputy Commissioner of Insurance W. A. Scott is developing evidence against parties responsible for the burning of a residence in Goldsboro and several houses in Mt. Olive. He goes Monday to Mocksville as the principal witness against Paul Anderson, a white man, who is charged with starting the fire several months ago that burned four of the best business houses in Mocksville. The allegations against Anderson are that he broke into one of the stores for purposes of robbery and then started the fire to "cover his tracks."

Hayes Not a Candidate.

R. H. Hayes, of Pittsboro, here today on professional business, says of the recently published reports that he may enter the lists as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, that there is not the least possibility of such a turn. He says he has been thinking about trying for the Fourth district seat in Congress, against Congressman E. W. Pou, but has reached no conclusion as to this. He says that a little later on he will make something of a survey of the district and the status of aspirants and then definitely determine whether or not he will get in the race.

Commissioner of Labor and Printing M. L. Shipman is very hopeful of obtaining for North Carolina in connection with the department here a branch office of the National Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce as maintained by the Federal government. He went into this matter pretty thoroughly during his three weeks' stay in Washington compiling the North Carolina statistics on manufactories, and believes that the branch can be obtained, the special purpose being co-operation to the advantage of the State in the extension of the United States trade relations with South American countries more especially.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Despite war in Europe the United States collected during the fiscal year ended June 30, more tonnage tax on ships in the foreign trade entering American ports than had been collected in any of the 30 years preceding. The total was $1,314,916, or $4,157 more than the tax for the preceding year.

EVENTS OF A WEEK IN AND ABOUT LUMBERTON

Much Tobacco and Fodder is Cured in Robeson County.

New Banking Corporation Chartered Seaboard Officials Visitors—No Typhoid in Town—New Building to be Erected—Visitors

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 28—The weather during the week has been ideal up to yesterday, when rain fell nearly all day, at times in torrents. During the week there has been much fodder and tobacco cured, the sales of the latter having been good here. Next week is expected to be the best tobacco week of the season thus far. The writer has not heard of any new cotton yet, but it will be only a few days before the gins will begin operations.

The Star correspondent went to Wilmington last Sunday, and was kept busy making observations on the train. He observed that five-cent Coca Cola was worth a dime; a package of cigarettes that is sold in drug stores for 10 cents costs 15 cents on the train. These and other goods are sold in every town or village on Sunday same as any other day, while the resident dealers dare not sell a cigar on Sunday. It was observed that at several places between here and Wilmington the Morning Star was called for but the supply had been exhausted and in some instances some other paper could be substituted, while in other cases nothing but The Star would do. At one station in Bladen county one man called for three copies of The Star, but upon being told he would have to take something else he turned away saying he would have what he wanted or have nothing. Leaving Wilmington on the return trip the train was crowded, but some kind of a little officer from Rockingham had a negro prisoner that had been arrested somewhere in the Wilmington section, being taken back to Rockingham, and was too nice to ride in the car for colored people. That negro prisoner was carried in the car in which women and children had to ride. Several people on the train were of the opinion that Richmond county officer had little respect for the white race and especially for white women.

New Banking Corporation

As has been published in the papers already, another banking institution has been chartered for Lumberton, and it is the supposition of many that the Farmers and Merchants Bank and the new corporation will be merged into one institution, though nothing has been given out for publication. The promoters of the new institution, or a part of them at least, are already interested in the Farmers and Merchants Bank.

A number of Seaboard officials were Lumberton visitors Thursday, spending some time viewing the town. Among those in the party were Superintendent Walton, of the Wilmington-Hamlet division; Train Masters Thornton and Pritchett; Passenger Agents West, Pleasants and Hunter, and Mr. Wilson, of the engineering department. Members of the party who had not visited Lumberton before expressed themselves as being pleased with the best town between Wilmington and Charlote.

No Typhoid Fever

If there is a case of typhoid fever in Lumberton the writer can't locate it, neither does he know of any malarial fever. This condition has been brought about by faithful work of the sanitary department which has had the earnest co-operation of most of our people. Possibly the worst month for fever is yet to come, and it is the earnest hope of the town authorities that the citizens will continue to assist them in keeping the town in good sanitary condition. There are several cases of typhoid in the East Lumberton section, but it is thought to have originated there from people who come from elsewhere. Dr. Page, county superintendent of health, says the typhoid of the county is confined almost entirely to the East Lumberton section, indicating that there is little fever in the county.

A large colored excursion, accompanied by a brass band, came from Marion, S. C., yesterday, but the continued heavy rains through the day kept the visitors from moving around much.

For the benefit of many friends of the family of the late Mr. James Jones who died in Lumberton about ten years ago, leaving four children, three sons and one daughter, all of whom have since left here, their mother having died before their father, the writer will say that the two elder sons, James and Henry, he is told, are in the United States army and are at present at Honolulu; the daughter, Eugenia, married and resides in Charlotte, while Jesse Burdy, the youngest, is with Woodall & Shepard in Wilmington. Many friends frequently inquire about them, hence this information.

Mr. John Howell, a native Robesonian, for many years past residing in Georgia, was a visitor here this week. Mr. Howell was raised in the Back Swamp section, where he has a brother, Mr. Frank Howell. He is also a brother of Mrs. Sallie Thompson, of Lumberton. Mr. Howell is a Confederate veterans, but is remarkably well preserved for a man of his age, 73 years.

New Building.

Messrs. White & Gough will in a short time begin the erection of a large wholesale and storage building on their lot located next north of the Robeson Bottling Works on Chestnut street, near the railroad. The building will be of brick, 21x100 feet. Ground is already being broken for the building.

The firm of Gilmore & Martin, grocers, has been dissolved, effective today. Mr. Gilmore has purchased the interest of Mr. Martin and will continue the business.

Rev. Thomas F. Noe, archdeacon of East Carolina, will conduct services, morning prayer and sermon, at Trinity church tomorrow at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Beginning next Wednesday, September 1, the business houses which have been closing at 6 p. m. during the summer will resume fall and winter hours, some closing at 7, others at later hours.

The executive committee of the Farmers' Union of Robeson county will meet here next Wednesday for the transaction of important business. It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance.

Dog taxes are causing some dog owners to wish they had never seen a dog. If they don't pay the tax they get indicted, which at least adds cost to taxes.

Rev. W. B. North, pastor of the Lumberton Methodist church, has returned from his vacation and will fill his appointments tomorrow morning and evening.

The Presbyterian Sunday school convention, composed of a large number of churches, will meet here next Thursday for a two days' session. Many visitors are expected.

STORM AND FLOOD AT TEXAS CITY DESCRIBED

Bladen County Boy Gives a Vivid Account of Hurricane.

Fourteen Soldiers Killed 100 Yards Away—Water Waist Deep in Streets—Writer Helped Rescue Family.

Bladenboro, N. C., Aug. 28.—A letter received here this week by Mrs. M. C. Edwards from her son, Harry Edwards, stationed at Texas City, Texas, with the United States military forces, gives a vivid account of his experiences during the recent hurricane and flood that resulted in the loss of a number of lives and the destruction of much property at that point as well as at Galveston and other places on the Texas Coast. The letter is dated August 20 and follows:

"I intended writing you before, but things are in such a mess we are all working like Turks. I suppose you heard or read of our hurricane and flood. It certainly was some storm. It started Sunday night and broke yesterday morning (Thursday). It swept our entire camp away; didn't leave anything standing at all. We stayed in the camp until Monday afternoon, hoping that it would break, but when the water began rising in the bay we began to pack our clothes. The water was knee deep in our kitchen when we ate supper and we left right after then and came up town.

"Myself and another boy in our company started to a new brick building that was being erected on Main street, but fortunately stopped at the Western Union office and stayed there Monday night. At 8:30 the new building that we were going to fell in and killed 14 soldiers and wounded three times as many.

"The bay rose until the water was waist deep in the streets and the wind blew as hard as 100 miles per hour. There is absolutely nothing of the army camp standing at all, and there were hundreds of horses drowned. There were about 300 or 400 people (women, children and men) in the building where I stayed Monday night. Their houses were either full of water or blown down. It was the most awful night I ever spent. We could see the water rising and could hear the brick buildings going down and every now and then a window in our refuge would break. Every little noise about our building—and we just knew it was our time. Everybody was an quiet as mice and the women certainly did behave nicely. When day came Tuesday morning there were only three or four buildings on our block standing,and the roof of our building was almost stripped off and nearly all the window glasses out.

"Our company is now located in a little two-story store house and we are sleeping on the floor, but most of us have blankets. However, none of us nor any of the soldiers have any clothes except what we have on.

"We couldn't get any bread to eat for two days, and the water supply is still scarce, but we think we will get some today. It is still cloudy, but is not raining much and the wind has quieted, but the people, especially the women, are leaving here. The trains just got started again yesterday, and specials are being run in order to move the people. They all say they never want to see Texas City again.

"I am not sure whether they will rebuild the camp here or not, as the people in Houston are trying to get the government to move us there. There was some talk of us going to San Antonio, Texas, but we don't know what will be done. This storm and flood have cost the government millions of dollars, and you can't tell when another will come. We lost absolutely everything, as we just left everything as it was, rifles and all.

"I imagine you must think I was scared to death, and to tell the truth I was nervous for a while, but when I saw we had no chance to get out of it, as there were on trains and no wires to any place, I just sat down and took it easy. When the building fell and killed the soldiers, they brought half of them to our building, as it was only about 100 yards away. Myself and a boy out of Company B took our "first aid" pouches off of our belts and tied them up with the bandages and sent for the doctor and helped dress them and get them to the hotel.

"Again I had just sat down on the floor to try to sleep when a man tried to come across the street to our building with his family. The water was waist deep and running so swiftly he let his wife and children get loose from him and called for help. I and the other boy and the boy from Company B waded out and brought them in.

"I am safe and received only one wound, which was caused by the wind blowing me against a glass window, cutting my knee slightly."

HAD PELLAGRA; IS NOW CURED

Hillsboro, Ala.—J. W. Turner, of this place, says: "I ought to have written you two weeks ago, but failed to do so. I got well and then forgot to write you. I can get about like a 10-year-old boy; you ought to see me run around and tend to my farm. I can go all day just like I used to. I am so thankful to know there is such a good remedy to cure people of pellagra."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the resourceful Baughn.

Kinston Physician, After Touring West, Finds No Place Like Home.

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 28.—"The Old North State for mine," Dr. W. F. Hargrove, a well known local physician, says at the end of a three-months tour of the West. Dr. Hargrove is now at Rochester, Minn., attending a surgical clinic, before returning home. He has been in practically all of the Southwestern and Western States since June 1. "There is more evidence of prosperity in the West," he wrote to friends here. "It is the tourists that are the main source of income. This is a big country, and you travel day and night most of the time in the West without coming to a town of any size. Cities are few and far between. As a farming proposition, from Denver to the Pacific coast not one acre in one thousand can ever be cultivated even with irrigation, and but a small part of it is fit for grazing. I saw more stock in Kansas than I saw in all the country farther west." Dr. Hargrove says the "toughest lot" of people he ever saw are to be found at Cripple Creek and in southwest Colorado.

Detroit Electric
$1975 to $2275

The car for all the family all the year

The enclosed car is steadily and surely becoming the preferred type of motor car. Its obvious advantages are winning more buyers each year.

And the modern Detroit Electric is easily the first choice in the enclosed car field. Each member of the family can drive it safely and expertly because of its simplicity and the positiveness of the control system. On hot days—with windows down—you enjoy open car coolness. On cold, stormy days—with windows raised—you have closed car comfort. And the Detroit Electric is perfectly silent in operation—it is always clean and there are no fumes or odor of gasoline about it. It has plenty of power and all the speed you need. And because its mechanism is so simple and of such high quality it is always dependable and available. There are some points about the Detroit Electric you will only fully appreciate after a demonstration—when will you have yours?

TOP O' THE MORNING

Nothing is more inconsistent than opposition to God. The puny power of man can never cope with the power of the Infinite One. It is only selfishness that causes man to imagine that he can oppose, with any degree of success, the righteous purposes of God. Such persons cannot square themselves with any principle of right thinking or right living. They look at everything from the viewpoint of their own advantage. The perfectly symmetrical life can be lived only when we are in harmony with God's will. —EXCHANGE.

Woodrow Wilson's way is winning.

Teddy's minority has dwindled down to himself.

Villa seems to be losing out as the Cole Blease of Mexico.

One of the difficult things to do is to catch up with that Rushing army.

Lots of the work being accomplished by many organizations consists mostly of securing publicity.

Some folks think more about enjoying their privileges than they do about preserving their liberty.

A woman who had read Cole Blease's Boston speech declared that in one particular she is a Cole Blease man.

There are two kinds of anarchists—those who don't know they are and those who know they are and don't hesitate to acknowledge it.

A financial paper says: "The American dollar is now on top." With most of us it's the jitney that is making itself the most conspicuous.

We hear that the neutrality of the South is about to go from one side to another, but don't you believe that honest sentiment goes up and down with the cotton quotations.

A big army without big guns and plenty of ammunition is about as satisfactory to itself as a big man with a big appetite and nothing to eat in proportion to his size.

The Georgia lynchers have brought reproach on the South because some reputable Northern papers prefer to make the South responsible for the crime of a back woods mob.

The girls wouldn't have a bit of fun out of it if it were left for them to propose. They would be deprived of the fun of cutely paving the way for a proposal from their helpless victims.

Doubtless the Balkan neutrals think their neutrality is worth more to them than promised territory that none of the bribesters can deliver unless fate turns the tide of battle in their favor.

The Allentown Democrat says: "A New York magistrate has decided that a man is entitled to get drunk once a year." Some men might make that once constitute a substitute most of the year.

Since Germany is disposed not to force us to go to war with her, guess Roosevelt will hate the Germans more than ever and be more bitter against Wilson for not going to war before the crisis passed.

See what we have missed because Roosevelt is not president. We might have had the glory of being in at least two wars in the last three years—that is, unless Teddy had contracted cold and clammy feet like he did when he called California down instead of knocking that chip off the shoulder of the Yellow Peril.

Says the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: "New York jewelers are declaring that wrist watches will be 'all the rage' among men during the coming year. Maybe among a certain class of the genus homo, but hardly among real men." Quite true, but the jewelers are not endeavoring to impress the minority. They count on selling wrist watches to fellows who part their hair in the middle and refer to their morning "bawth."

LYNCHING IS ANARCHY

Men of unconstitutional and illegal minds like former Governor Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, are dangerous to well-ordered society and established rights. Liberty means freedom from the tyrany of government, but it is not that which we have to guard so zealously as it is our individual rights. If rights are guaranteed, they are not for one man or a dozen men, but for all men—the law-abiding men and the lawless men. Even the accused man has his guaranteed rights and for that reason the constituted law of the land does not consider him guilty till he has had the right of trial and conviction in a court in which his cause can be judicially heard.

That is law, but when we are against law we are anarchists. We stand for anarchy, which means "against law," however and in whatever particular we may be against it. All men who are not willing to submit to law or to submit the cause of others to law are anarchists in whatever degree you may figure it out. Those who are not for the law are certainly against it, and those who are against it are anarchists, whether they think so or not. Their opinion about it has no effect on the stern fact. The man who opposes constituted authority or who aids or abets those who are lawless for any reason or excuse can only be regarded as anarchistic in temperament.

Even Mr. Coleman Blease ought to understand that, for he is a lawyer and a shrewd one at that. However, in his Boston speech he defended and advocated lynch law, which is one way that anarchy takes to manifest itself. It is nonsense to talk about a mob's carrying out the law, or administering justice, or carrying out the "mandates of a court." Only the constituted authorities of organized government can do that. When men take the law in their own hands, or rather trample the law under their feet, whatever the occasion, they violate the law and are lawyess, whether their intent be good or bad.

Blease spoke at the Governors' Conference and his remarks in advocacy of lynching were so shocking that the governors who regard the law as sacred took occasion to put themselves on record as repudiating his views. Some of them made telling points. Governors Stuart, of Virginia, and Scarborough, of Maryland, made good speeches in defense of the law. Governor Walsh, of Massachusetts, declared that "there can be no liberty without obedience to law." Furthermore, Governor Walsh emphasized the fact that in recognition of the law as the safeguard of liberty there is a court house in Massachusetts bearing this inscription: "Here speaketh the conscience of the State, restraining the individual will."

Here is one of the Massachusetts governors' declarations that all men should remember: "The courts are the conscience of the community, and the conscience of the community cannot be represented by the mob. There can be no liberty unless conscience continues to have control of the people."

That is a truth which every man ought to fix in his mind. It is a cardinal principle and it should be a part of the conscience of every citizen. No mob can represent the law or the conscience of law-abiding people—not even a mob of "thinking men."

A few days ago the speaker of the Georgia house of representatives justified the lynching of Leo Frank and declared that it was the act of "thinking men," carrying out the mandates of the court set aside by Georgia's former governor.

The speaker of the Georgia house ought to know that he is treading on dangerous ground. He ought to know that the Georgia mob would not dare to go into court and submit that plea. The deeds of all mobs are contrary to law, and it should be said that the greatest danger of mob law is that if it is tolerated in carrying out public sentiment, there will come a time when the mob will commit deeds contrary to the public conscience and even against the rights of unoffending citizens. Mobs cannot be depended upon to be so judicial as the speaker of the house of representatives of Georgia credits that Cobb county mob with being.

Instead of being an arm of the law, a mob is a force setting law at naught—probably to lynch a guilty man or just as likely to murder an innocent man entitled to the protection of the law sustained by the consciences of his fellow citizens. The public conscience cannot and does not approve lynch law, and proof of the fact that the mob is perfectly aware of it is that its members disguise themselves to commit their deed. They know they are violating the law and they hide their faces from it because they fear to face the consequence in a court of justice.

Those who administer justice have no need to fear justice. Lynching is spasmodic anarchy and mobs belong to the anarchy class.

STATE PUBLICITY CATECHISM.

The North Carolina Bureau of Publicity wants us to begin to know North Carolina and seeks to aid us by asking a lot of questions that will put us to thinking about our own State, so we can find out what is the matter with North Carolina that it has not attracted settlers like other states, particularly those in the West. To begin with, the Bureau sends us a circular letter which it is broadcasting throughout the State. The letter is pertinently inquisitive, and here are the questions it propounds:

"Do you know that 84 per cent of the people in North Carolina were born in the State, and that only 22 per cent of the people of Wyoming were born in that state?

"Do you know why so large a percentage of Wyoming's people came from other states? Because they thought Wyoming a better state than their own.

"Now you know North Carolina is a better state than Wyoming, don't you? And you know that the 689,000 people born in New York who are living in other states would be, or at least a lot of them would be, living in North Carolina if they knew what a good state this is, don't you?

"Do you know that over 777,000 of the people living in Missouri were born in other states? Suppose those three-quarters of a million people had known what a good state North Carolina is. Don't you think a good bunch of them would be here?

"Don't you think that the 926,000 people who went to Illinois, or the 825,000 who went to Texas, or the 615,000 who went to New York from other states, might have sent a whaling big delegation to North Carolina if they had known something about this state?

"Do you know what the State Publicity Bureau proposes to do? It intends to let people know about North Carolina so that the vast army that is moving to hunt new homes will look this way. In the United States nearly 20,000,000 people are living in states other than where they were born. That means North Carolina has seen one-fifth of the entire population of the United States hunt new homes, and of that twenty millions a trifle over a hundred thousand has come to this state, or one out of 200. Is that our share when we have the best state in the Union? The Bureau of Publicity thinks not. What do you think?"

Most of those questions answer themselves in a way, but they open up broad subjects to be reflected upon by North Carolinans. In a general way it can be asserted in a defiant manner that North Carolina is the best State of all, but we owe her an apology for keeping it to ourselves. Eighty-four per cent of the people of North Carolina were born lucky, while the other 16 per cent were born under a lucky star that led them to the land of promise. At least a million more should have come here from other states and shared our luck, and we believe they would have come if it had not been for us who were born in North Carolina.

It seems that after we were born and grew up we went to work and forgot all about letting other people know what a cinch we have in North Carolina. We might have induced hundreds of thousands of people to come to North Carolina, but inasmuch as we are now endeavoring to do that we can get out of it by putting the blame on our ancestors. However, they were honest and truthful people and did not care to enter the field of prevarication against the boosters who went out West and began to make a great noise that attracted home-seekers by the millions.

Twenty million people in this country have sought homes outside of the states in which they were born, but out of those 20,000,000 home-seekers only about 150,000 located in North Carolina. However, the home-seekers who have come here are now among the State's greatest boosters, and we have leagued together for the purpose of doing our duty by the resourceful State of North Carolina.

We ought to study the State Bureau's questions and ask ourselves the reason why our State has gotten such a small share of the home-seekers who have gone from other states by the millions. We are the chief reason ourselves, but we have gone to work to do better by the State. However, we ought not to waste much time in reproaching ourselves and asking ourselves questions, but go to work at once and let the world know about the varied and matchless resources of North Carolina and proclaim abroad the advantages, the opportunities and the adaptabilities of a State with a vast and rich tidal plain, a fertile piedmont section and a charming and productive mountain region.

In each region there are resources and advantages common to all, but in each there are resources peculiar to each, thus offering home-seekers the choice of locating in the section which most meets their ideals and avocations. It is time we were proclaiming abroad the potentialities of this unequalled State, but if we do not know them ourselves we cannot convince others of the State's claim to their favor.

How many of us know North Carolina any better than those people who strayed off to Wyoming, Missouri, Texas and other states? There are facts about North Carolina that would be a revelation to her own people, and when we get hold of them ourselves we won't have to wonder what we can do to attract home-seekers to North Carolina. All we will have to do is to reveal to others what we know ourselves and thus do a magnificent work for the premier State in the "Nation's Garden Spot."

HARPING ON INVASION.

Nearly all the preparedness talk in this country harps on the possibility of the invasion of the United States by some foreign power, but the main reason why this country should be in a state of military and naval preparedness is the necessity of being able to defend its rights throughout the world. National dignity, national honor, national respect and national interests have to be protected, and incidents growing out of the present calamitous war show that our greatest necessity is to protect ourselves from alien humiliation rather than foreign invasion.

For lack of military and naval preparedness we have been the most innocent of innocent by-standers during the cataclysm in Europe. We confess that the country has had to stand for some humiliating occurrences because of the realization that active resentment would be futile if not foolhardy. We have been placed in the position of protesting and requesting our national rights instead of demanding, asserting and protecting them with a national power capable of being exercised with judgment, wisdom and fearlessness.

We are willing to arbitrate but we ought not to be willing to have to temporize in a plain matter of the right of Americans in the protection of their lives and property and interests on land and sea.

Invasion would be better than the humiliation that Americans must feel at the impotence of this country to assert its rights and defend and enforce them. Invasion of this country is far more impracticable than is the possibility and probability of interference with an absolute abrogation of American rights on the seas of the world.

We don't think any one need fear successful invasion of this country by a foreign army backed by the biggest navy in the world. Invasion of a country so isolated as this from the forces of a country powerful enough to attempt it would be a military exploit that no nation could hope to accomplish. Several navies combined could not land enough men and provide them with a base of supplies so dependable and secure that an invasion would be considered practicable.

England has not been invaded by forces landed from water. Neither has Germany, and even Turkey is proving how difficult it is to land enough forces and keep them reinforced for the capture of Constantinople and control of the Dardanelles.

Invasion of America is something else. No power could fancy itself with prowess equal to such an undertaking. On the sea, however, they can rub it into us and make us depend upon diplomacy for a square deal. We ought not to insist on exercising rights unavoidably detrimental to friendly nations, but we ought to be in a position to exercise and defend those rights when violation of them is both humiliating and detrimental to this country.

The constitution of North Carolina says: "No person ought to be * * * in any manner deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the law of the land." All other states have similar clauses in their constitutions, based upon the constitution of the United States. Abrogate that part of the consitution and you destroy all protection to the life, liberty and property of every citizen. Every member of every lynching mob tramples that part of the constitution under foot. That is the crux of the matter. That is graver than the question of the guilt or innocence of the mob's victim. It is graver than the fact that every member of the mob makes himself a murderer. Lynch law is anarchy pure and simple. It makes a breach in the only wall of protection around the life of any man, woman or child in the land.

We don't know North Carolina yet. How many of us knew that gold mining is being carried on successfully in Nash county; that $100,000 is invested in the industry in one locality in that county and that between one and two million dollars worth of the precious metal had been produced there? It is quite interesting to note that the Philadelphia owner of the property is now going about developing it on a much larger scale than ever. By the way, Nash county is a part of the Nation's Garden Spot. It borders on the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line for a considerable distance between Wilmington and Weldon.

Don't overlook the fact that the cotton grower who gets any of that thirty million dollars provided by the government will have to have his cotton warehoused and insured. After all, it all comes back to the original proposition—cotton storage warehouses. Remember hearing something like that about a year ago?

THE CITY TAX RATE

Wilmington, N. C., August 26, 1915.
Editor The Morning Star:

A statement in your local column yesterday indicates that the city tax rate will be $1.90. This was foreshadowed in a conversation with the city clerk and treasurer a few days previous, notwithstanding the valuation of taxable property has been increased over $3,000,000. This increase at $1.90 will produce nearly $60,000. A reduction of 10c would amount to about $14,000. The rate last year was 2 per cent. and, as admitted, was illegal.

Is it necessary to increase city taxes $46,000 this year? Would it not be more business-like to cut down expenses and provide in that way, in part at least, funds to pay on old debts? And, what is more to the point, the law limits the city tax rate to 1 per cent. and in addition to whatever has been authorized by special legislation.

Ninety cents on the $100 will produce almost $155,000 on this year's valuation. It cannot possibly be shown that there is special authority to levy that amount of taxes, and, if it could, the money would have to be used for the special purposes authorized, and no others.

Besides this increase, I have been informed that there are over $30,000 of collectible back taxes on the tax books. Are the tax payers satisfied with the above showing?

The committee of the Chamber of Commerce has done all it could to effect the object of its appointment, and they will report that a rate of $1.90 (if adopted) is illegal.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Charlotte has at last landed the assembling plant for the Ford Motor Company. This is an item of big news. It is the most important event in the commercial life of Charlotte that has been put on record in many years, and it widens the circle this city has been occupying on the map of the country a number of degrees. At the outset the plant will put up 25 automobiles a day. Ford history will undoubtedly repeat itself here and within the course of a year it is reasonable to expect that the Charlotte plant will be turning out machines not by the score, but by the hundred. Charlotte has landed a bigger thing than it can at present realize. In the course of a short time they will be calling this town the Detroit of the South. —Charlotte Observer.

Observer readers have been told of the arrival at the docks in Houston of the steamship Catilla, direct from New York with a cargo of 2,000 tons of merchandise. Houston is 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, but this vessel sailed to its docks through what was formerly a shallow bayou, but which has been converted into a ship channel 200 feet wide at the bottom and 27 feet deep. The work of dredging this channel cost $2,500,000. Houston put up half the money and the government provided the remainder. In Fayetteville we find a parallel development, but on a smaller scale—the canalization of the Cape Fear river, by which a channel of a uniform depth of eight feet is secured all the year around. Ocean craft drawing not over eight feet can carry a considerable cargo, and while the larger vessels will still have to anchor at Wilmington the Cape Fear will be open to the sailing of a respectable fleet of merchantmen up that river far into the interior of North Carolina. A peculiar feature regarding this Cape Fear development is the indifference manifested by the State. The established eight-foot navigation of the river is made possible by an appropriation that is a mere bagatelle in comparison with the results to both Fayetteville and the State, yet so far the public has not become interested in it to any appreciable degree. For all that, The Observer expects to be writing some big things about the port of Fayetteville in 1916.—Charlotte Observer.

CONVENTION OF THE N. C. LUTHERAN WOMEN

More Than 150 Delegates and Visitors Expected.

Many Distinguished Educators and Speakers to Be Here This Week —Arrangement Committees of Churches Appointed.

All arrangements are about completed for the reception of the 150 delegates and visitors who will attend the 30th annual missionary synodical convention of the Lutheran church of this State, which will convene in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Rev. F. B. Clausen, pastor, on Thursday morning, September 2.

The joint missionary societies of St. Paul's and St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran churches here have been looking forward for months to this convention with great plasure. It is hoped that not only the members of the societies will take a deep interest in the sessions of the convention, but the members of the congregation as well; for while the programme will present messages from the home and foreign fields, many hours will be devoted to speeches and addresses for the growth and enrichment of the Christian life, and the deepening of personal piety. All the sessions of the convention will be open to the public and a most hearty welcome will be given to every one.

The business sessions will be held in the Sunday school building where there are ample facilities for committees, display of literature, writing material, etc. The evening services, which will be educational and inspirational, will be held in St. Paul's church. The programme is an unusually strong one, and from the prominence of the speakers, the church will no doubt be crowded to its capacity.

Rev. J. C. Seegers, D. D., of Columbia, S. C., of the Southern Lutheran Theological Seminary, is a preacher of great ability and a teacher of wonderful force He will conduct daily mission studies and deliver the closing address of the convention, on Sunday night. Rev. R. C. Holland, D. D., of Columbia, S. C., president and general secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, has been connected with the mission work of the Southern Lutheran church for many years and during the last 8 years, aided by a loyal constituency, has made wonderful progress in the development of the Lutheran mission at Kunamots, Japan, in its educational and evangelistic departments. Full of enthusiasm, he will bring us an inspiring message. Rev. R. S. Patterson, of Charlotte, general secretary of the Home Mission Board, has been in the Southern filed only two years, but during this time he has been highly successful in putting new life into the various missions and encouraged the workers to greater and better things for the Master's Kingdom. He is hopeful and resolute in his special work, and has the liberal support of his church.

Mrs. M. O. J. Krebs, is no stranger in Wilmington. Her thoughtful and helpful messages two years ago will assure for her a glad and most welcome return. Mrs. E. C. Cronk has been so very successful in many summer normal mission schools, especially along the line of work among children, that it will be a rare privilege to have her on Friday evening of the convention.

St. Paul's choir, under the leadership of Mrs. E. Schulken, will render special music during the convention. A number of children, trained by Mrs. Carl Rehder, will render several selections. St. Paul's Missionary Society will be represented in the convention by Mrs. Henry F. Otten, and St. Matthew's by Mrs. Daniel Branch.

The present officers of the convention are: President, Mrs. R. L. Patterson; first vice president, Mrs. C. P. MacLoughlin; second vice president; Mrs. W. H. Riser; third vice president, Mrs. John M. Cook; recording secretary, Mrs. Mattie Miller; corresponding secretary, Miss Laura Efird; tresurer, Mrs. A. W. Winecoff; young people's secretary and treasurer, Miss Constance Cline; children's secretary and treasurer, Mrs. V. Y. Booser.

From last year's report are gleaned the following facts: Number of societies, 54; membership, 1,689; contributions, $5,294.99; number of young people's and children's societies, 73; membership, 1,696; contributions, $3,215.47.

The delegates are requested to notify Mrs. J. H. Dreher, No. 807 Princess street, on which train they expect to arrive in the city.

Various Committees.

The general committee is compored of the officers of St. Paul's: President, Mrs. W. Rehder; vice president, Mrs. Fred Bissinger; secretary, Mrs. Fred Banck; corresponding secretary, Miss Bertha Smith; treasurer, Miss Josie Schulken; together with Mrs. J. H. Rehder and Mrs. L. Freimuth.

The committee on securing homes is composed of Mmes. J. H. Rehder, J. H. Kuhlken, H. F. Otten, George Schutt, M. G. Tiencken, E. P. H. Strunck, C. H. Bornemann and Lester Harvey.

With the Recorder.

Only one case was brought before the Recorder yesterday. Sis Butler, colored, was sent to the county farm for 30 days on charge of assault with deadly weapon. The assault was made upon her husband, who had been flirting too much with another negro woman.

THE ROYAL THEATRE TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 10TH

New and Modern Amusement House Nearing Completion.

High Class Feature Photoplays to be Shown—Equipment of Latest and Most Improved Type—Rest Room for Ladies.

Wilmington's new and modern movie theatre, "The Royal," now nearing completion on Front street, opposite the postoffice, will be opened on September 10th, Messrs. Howard & Wells, the owners, stated yesterday afternoon. The finishing of the interior is progressing rapidly, and the general contractors expect to have their part of the construction work completed within less than a week.

Mr. P. W. Wells said that the Royal will be run as a high class feature house, exhibiting the very latest feature productions on the market, and will be conducted along the same progressive policy as has been the Bijou in the past, keeping in close touch with patrons at all times so that their wishes may be catered to. It has been to the extreme gratification of Messrs. Howard & Wells in the past that they have been enabled to touch shoulders with the leading citizens of the city in their conduct of the Bijou, and they feel that their success has been due largely to the co-operation of the best people of Wilmington, whereby they have been able to give the people of the city clean and instructive entertainment. The same policy will be carried out at the Royal, and all the ministers of the city and their families, as well as members of the police and fire departments, in uniform, will be extended the courtesies of the house.

The Royal, unlike the usual feature picture theatre, which contracts for one feature service and is compelled to show whatever is sent them, will not contract for any one service exclusively, but will select the very best features from the leading feature producers, including the Paramount, World, Metro and other feature programmes. Therefore, no picture will be exhibited, said Mr. Wells, which has not first been carefully examined and found to be satisfactory.

"The words 'feature photoplays'," said Mr. Wells, "covers a multitude of sins, but with the opening of the Royal, Wilmington may rest assured that they will have presented for their entertainment only the real features, chosen from the entire field of photoplay producers, and our long experience in the business should enable us to exercise a pretty keen judgment in the selection of our pictures."

An order has been placed through Mr. C. L. Whitehead, local representative, for one of the famous "Seeburg Motion Picture Players," the most wonderful musical instrument of its kind ever devised, which is manufactured especially for moving picture theatres, at a cost of $4,000. It is virtually a modern pipe organ, with the added features of an orchestra of 162 different instruments and effects, all within one immense instrument. An expert operator will be employed from the factory to play it, as no ordinary musician could easily master its technique. This will probably be the first of these instruments ever placed in North Carolina, as its use heretofore has been confined to the larger cities, some of the largest metropolitan theatres having them.

Two of the very latest projecting machines, Powers 6-B Model, just put on the market, have been bought, and with the mirror screen, costing $1,000, the pictures shown at the Royal will be shown with a projecting machine and a projecting surface that has never before been seen in Wilmington. In line with the other modern equipment, an automatic ticket selling machine will be installed in the box office.

For ventilation, a most modern and elaborate system has been already installed and will be supplemented by four large exhaust fans, two of them four feet in diameter and two 24 inches in diameter.

A feature which will no doubt be appreciated by the ladies of the city is a rest room, which has been built in on the left side at the front. It will be in charge of a maid at all times, and will be open to all the ladies of the city, whether patrons of the theatre or not. It will also be utilized as a checking room for umbrellas and parcels.

Another feature of the Royal will be that the shows will be run on a regular and exact schedule, thereby enabling all patrons to know before hand at exactly what time the different performances wil latart. This schedule will be adhered to strictly at all times and patrons will therefore be relieved of the annoyance of having to witness the last half of the picture before they see the beginning.

Mr. Wells stated that the theatre will be run on an admission basis of ten cents for adults and five cents for children.

CAUGHT HAULING GOODS

James Johnson, Colored, is Held Awaiting Developments.

James Johnson, colored, was noticed yesterday by the owner, unloading goods in Tom Merrick's stable, and the police were notified in time to catch him before he had finished. Johnson made the claim that he was just hauling for another fellow, but as yet has failed to produce any evidence as to who was his employer and says he don't know who he is. The goods were carried to the police station, where they were examined and found to be a shipment to Fairmount, N. C. There were two boxes of Arm & Hammer soda, one case of cheese and a 50-pound can of sausage. Johnson is being held on suspicion that he was trying to steal the goods.

PLACE FOR EXTRA REVENUE

Senator Cooper Wants Board of Education to Supply School Books.

Senator W. B. Cooper, having noticed the controversy between Messrs. Willard and Carr, through the newspapers, has announced himself as favoring using at least some of the extra revenue going into the hands of the Board of Education as a result of the increased property valuation for the purpose of buying school books for poor children. He thinks there are many in this county who can ill afford to buy books and that it will be serving a good purpose to help those who can't help themselves.

INVENTS NEW GRATE FOR STEAM BOILERS

Mr. L. H. Simmons, of Wilmington, Perfects Device.

Almost Perfect Air Distribution Claimed With New Appliance—Thorough Test Has Been Made —To Organize Company.

Mr. L. H. Simmons, of Wilmington, has invented a complete forced draft grate system for all kinds of steam boiler plants, whereby, he claims, a great saving can be made and any grade of coal can be successfully consumed. Mr. Simmons claims he can burn slack coal against the best mine run and effect a saving of from 12 1-2 to 25 per cent. over the present style of hand firing. Several prominent business men in this section are interested in the invention and a company will be organized this week for its manufacture. The headquarters of the concern will be in Wilmington and the present plans are to erect a manufacturing plant here in the near future.

The invention is simple, durable, easy on boiler, and it is claimed that it will lessen the labor of firing one-half. The combustion is said to be superior to any other grate known, one of the important features being that it makes it possible to consume from 75 to 80 of the smoke and it is guaranteed to pass any smoke ordinance.

Mr. Simmons has installed one of his grates under one of the 150-horsepower boilers in the plant of the Independent Ice Company, replacing a forced draft burner which was installed in July, 1914, and cost $1,000. Several well known engineers in Wilmington have inspected the Simmons' grate and proouce it to be superior to any other grate they know of and claim that in their opinion it will last three or four times longer than the best grate now on the market.

The Independent Ice Company now has one of the Simmons' grates under one of their 150-horsepower boilers and also one of another well known make. Mr. Simmons asks all users of steam to call at the plant, which is located at Seventh and Brunswick streets, and inspect the grates in the different boilers and judge for themselves as to the merits of the two.

The entire plant of the Independent Ice Company requires 287 1-2 actually developed horsepower to operate the machinery. Mr. Simmons with his improved grate developed this power with ease without strain in one of the 150-horsepower boilers, using slack coal. The fireman stated that it was no more trouble to keep steam than it was when both boilers were used.

The evaporative test was made on August 20 and 21 by Messrs. H. G. Dill, C. E.; Lawrence Williamson, of the Bellwill Cotton Mill, and W. L. DeRosset, who weighed the water, and showed a saving in fuel over the other grate, with which it was compared, of 6.1 per cent.

Mr. Simmons claims the following for his grate: Fuel economy; high boiler efficiency; lessening of boiler room labor by one-half; increase in boiler capacity; elimination of boiler room distress; practically no up-keep expense; successful operation with ignorant and inexperienced firemen; steam can be kept uniform by anyone who can throw coal in a furnace; steam controlled automatically; greater reduction of boiler heat than any other grate or burner; any grade of coal can be used; operates with less fire board than any other system; reduces ash from 40 to 50 per cent; makes no large clinkers; reduces smoke to the extent that it will pass any smoke ordinance; easier to clean furnace walls; life of grate much longer than any other; unnecessary to draw fire to renew the grates.

Mr. Simmons guarantees the life of his grate for two years and makes the following proposition to all steam users: He will install the Simmons forced draft grate and take his pay out of the savings effected in fuel bills, determining these savings by an evaporative test made 20 hours in advance of the installation and then by a similar test after his installation. From these tests estimates are to be made as to what the savings would be for one month and this amount is to be paid monthly until the grate is paid for in full. The company manufacturing the grate is to bear the entire expense of installation in a satisfactory manner.

The system consists of a small engine, fan, steam regulator valves, dampers and a set of grates for each boiler with air ducts beneath the floor line in front of the boilers for conveying the air that furnishes the draft, which is taken into each section of the grate in center of fire box from laterals leading from the main air duct in front of boilers and extended under ash pit to center of firebox or furnace. The installation of grate section does not require the closing down of a boiler plant. Where there is more than one boiler in operation it will not be necessary to close down the plant to put in the grates as one boiler can be used while the grates are being put in the other.

The upkeep of the grates is comparatively small, as the grates are kept constantly cooled from an almost perfect distribution of air through small holes over the entire surface. The accumulation of fine ashes can be disposed of by an arrangement by which the lower part of the grate works on hinges so that it can be dropped down by pulling a lever. On account of the perfect distribution of air, Mr. Simmons says he can save from 15 to 30 per cent. in fuel bills. While any kind of coal can be burned, of course, the better the grade the better the results obtained, although an even steam pressure can be maintained with the poorest grade of coal. The chief merit that Mr. Simmons claims for his grate is the distribution which makes it possible to consume a maximum of the coal, gases, smoke and other materials.

Mr. Simmons has had his device patented and also examinations made in the patent office to see if there are any other similar grates and declares that his invention is something absolutely new.

A number of business men of the city are interested in the invention and an application has been made to the Secretary of State for a charter for the company which will be organized with an authorized capital of $125,000. There are also several out-of-town business men interested in the venture and it is expected that an organization of the company will be perfected some time this week.

It is planned to operate a plant in Wilmington for the manufacture of the grates. The principle of construction is simple and no machinery of intricate design will be required, so that the cost will not be large.

Mr. Simmons has been working on his invention for several years and has given it a thorough test before beginning plans for its manufacture. He feels that its worth has been amply demonstrated and that it will prove itself superior to anything now on the market.

Spend a Restful Day
at Lumina and enjoy the fine music. (Advertisement).

PUTTING IN AUTOMATIC SYSTEM OF SPRINKLERS

Wilmington Compress Company Making Improvement

Will Result in Material Reduction on Insurance Rates for Cotton Stored There—Cost to Be Over $15,000—Most Modern Type.

An automatic sprinkler system of the most modern type is being installed in the warehouses of the Wilmington Compress & Warehouse Company, corner Nutt and Harnett streets, at a cost of over $15,000, which will effect a material reduction in the insurance rates on cotton and other articles stored there. This warehouse has a capacity of 40,000 bales of cotton and of between 75,000 and 100,000 tons of fertilizer and is one of the largest in Wilmington.

The system is being installed under the supervision of the Charlotte branch of the General Fire Extinguisher Company and it is expected that it will take at least a month to complete the work. The building is largely constructed of brick and the installation of the sprinklers throughout the large structure will make it as near fireproof as it is possible to make it.

The sprinkler system is of the type which is used extensively in cotton mills and cotton warehouses throughout the South and is so arranged that should fire break out at any point in the building water will begin to flow upon it automatically and in addition a gong is sounded in the office which gives the exact location of the blaze, so that the fire department may be summoned as well as other help, if it should be necessary. The warehouse is already equipped with complete fire fighiting appartus including hose and hydrants. The water for the new equipment will be supplied from the city waterworks plant.

While no danger from fire is anticipated, the additional protection results in a material reduction of insurance rates and with such a large amount of storage capacity this expense is no small item.

The Wilmington Compress & Warehouse Company does a general storage business for the public and is also equipped with compresses so that cotton can be compressed for export. Cotton may also be stored in bulk.

RETURNS FROM TRIP THROUGH BLADEN COUNTY

Joseph W. Little, Esq., Made Address at Lisbon Yesterday.

Joseph W. Little Little, Esq., candidate for Congress from this district, returned yesterday afternoon from a trip through Bladen county which he made in his automobile. He spent Thursday at Clarkton and Friday he was at Bladenboro. Yesterday he delivered an address at the Woodmen picnic at Lisbon. Mr. O. L. Clark, of Clarkton, also made an address at the meeting yesterday. There were several hundred people in attendance and a sumptuous barbecue dinner was served.

Mr. Little expresses himself as being well pleased with the outlook in a political way and says that it is in every way satisfactory so far as he is concerned.

The crops generally throughout Bladen county, he says, are good and there is promise of an excellent yield. The rains that have fallen during the last two days came as a great relief, especially to corn.

Mr. Little will go to Whiteville tomorrow to attend the formal opening of the new court house there. He will make the trip through the country in his automobile and will be accompanied by Judge Rountree, who will preside at this week's term of Superior Court which convenes there tomorrow.

MR. BROWN IN CHARLOTTE.

Chadbourn Business Man Made Address at Pembroke Yesterday.

Hon. J. A. Brown, of Chadbourn, made an address at Pembroke yesterday and at Mt. Holly near Charlotte on Friday. He also spent some time in Charlotte and yesterday's Charlotte Observer speaks of his visit as follows:

"Mr. Brown is a candidate for Congress in his district, being one of five aspirants for the honor representing the so-called "Wilmington district." in the National Congress. There are seven counties in the district and five candidates which makes it almost as many candidates as counties.

"Asked about the situation in the Sixth, Mr. Brown stated that it was entirely too early to hazard anything definite as to the outcome. He declared, however, that "the signs," in the language of David Crockett, that practical politician par excellent, were excellent.

"Mr. Brown stated that the crops throughout the eastern section were generally very good."

BUYS POINT PETER.

Intimated That Property Will Not Remain Idle Much Longer.

The tract of land known as Point Peter, purchased three years ago by Messrs. Thos. W. Pritchard and A. B. Skelding jointly, was recently purchased in its entirety by Mr. Skelding. It has not been stated what was paid for Mr. Pritchard's interest. The whole tract three years ago was supposed to be worth between $15,000 and $20,000. Mr. Skelding says he has no announcement to make just yet, but intimates that the property will not be idle long. It is thought by many that the property would make an excellent manufacturing site.

MAJOR H. W. STICKLE RETIRES

Stay as United States District Engineer in Baltimore Was Short—Col. Biddle Takes Place.

The announcement which has just been made from the War Department that Major H. W. Stickle, recently transferred from the Wilmington district to the Baltimore district, has asked for retirement, will be learned with much interest by his many friends throughout Eastern North Carolina. Major Stickle was for a little more than three years in charge of the Wilmington district and served most efficiently in this capacity.

His request for retirement is based upon an act of Congress which permits an army officer to retire when he has served three years in the Panama Canal Zone. Major Stickle came to Wilmington from Panama.

His retirement will date from January 19, 1916, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, the next advance in the line. Col. John Biddle, now on temporary duty in the War Department, will relieve Major Stickle about October 1 from which time he is entitled to leave or absence until date of retirement.

Major Stickle left Wilmington the latter part of July to take charge of the Baltimore district. He had given no intimation at that time that he expected to retire so soon and the announcement that he is to leave active service will be a surprise to his friends here as he is yet a comparatively young man. It is not known what his plans for the future are.

DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF BRIDE-ELECT

Rose Hill, N. C., August 28.—Thursday afternoon the home of Mrs. Oscar Fussell was a scene of much pleasure when Miss Elizabeth Jerome entertained in honor of Miss Ruth Geddie, whose marriage is to take place September seventh. About forty guests were present in response to the following invitation:

"A shower's really very pleasant
When every raindrop is a present
So you'll have fun you may suppose
If you'll join our shower of hanks and hose."

The color scheme, yellow and white, was carried out in the parlor, dining room and hall, daisies and black eyed susans being used in profusion. After the guests assembled a most interesting contest, "An Old Fashioned Wedding Dinner," was thoroughly enjoyed, Mrs. E. McNair Carr and Miss Hettie Geddie being the fortunate winners of the prize, a nail file of parisian ivory. They very graciously presented this to the honoree. A second contest, "Characteristics of Married Men We Know," proved most amusing. Four couples tied for this prize, Mrs. D. B. Herring and Miss Hazel Newton drawing the highest number, were presented with a lovely yellow crepe de chine handkrechief which was in turn presented to the bride-to-be, who responded very fittingly. The guests were then invited into the dining room by Mrs. A. R. Bland and Miss Ethel Southerland. The centerpiece was a lovely bowl of yellow roses over which was suspended a watering pot with tiny silver wires, representing water, falling from it into the roses.

After a delicious salad course had been served, Mrs. B. H. Black in clever verse informed the guest of honor that she was expected to draw the "magic ribbons" and reveal the secret of the water pot. When this suggestion was complied with a shower of prettily tied packages covered the table, which upon being opened proved to be the daintiest of handkerchiefs, and loveliest of silk hose, towels and centerpieces. The guests departed, with one consent agreeing that this was the most unique affair ever enjoyed in Rose Hill, and declaring Miss Jerome a most delightful hostess.

WRIGHTSVILLE IN DARKNESS

Severe Windstorm Broke Down Six Trolley Wire Poles on Sound. Car Service Impaired.

A severe windstorm struck Wrightsville Beach yesterday afternoon at 15 minutes past 5 o'clock, breaking down six of the trolley wire poles of the Tidewater Power Company, just this side of the Hammocks, putting Wrightsville Beach in total darkness and impairing the car service.

The week-end visitors at the beach were much more numerous than had been expected and there were a large number in the surf when the storm came up. One car was just leaving the beach when the poles were broken and backed off the trestle to the island to await the end. The place where the trolley wire could not be used was only the length of six poles and the several cars that had to pass, made up a good speed and coasted over the "dead" place. Many of the first few cars coming back were crowded with visitors to Lumina, who decided that the festivities for the day were over for them. Two cars got stranded in the "dead" place last night and all service to the beach was stopped from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The Tidewater Power Company was unable last night to give a close estimate as to what time it would take to repair all damages, and all cottagers at the beach, who are not well supplied with candles, were in total darkness all last evening. It is thought that service can be restored some time today and that conveniences can again be had on the island. There was no report of any houses being seriously damaged.

It rained in torrents in Wilmington for several hours and there was considerable wind. No damage was reported, although people were put to considerable inconvenience in trying to navigate the streets which were flooded with water. There was an electrical storm and much thunder.

POLICE MAKE RAID ON NEGRO GROCER'S STORE.

Found Four Gallons of Whiskey—Suspected of Receiving Stolen Goods.

Four gallons of whiskey and a lot of merchandise, which is believed by the police to have been stolen, were found in the store of Giles Smith, a colored grocer, at Tenth and Green streets yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock when a raid was made on his place by Chief of Police Williams and Plainclothesmen Leon George and D. W. Coleman. Smith was charged with violating the prohibition law by having more whiskey than the law allows and also with receiving stolen goods. He gave a cash bond of $200 for his appearance before the Recorder Monday.

A lot of tobacco in boxes, from which the stenciled names of persons to whom it was shipped had been chopped off with an axe, was found in the store and also a lot of cigarettes which it is believed were stolen from box cars. Smith said he bought the stuff but wasn't able to tell from whom he bought it nor did he have bills to show from whom it came.

TWO LARGE NEW FLOUR MILLS NOW IN HARNETT

Much Interest in Good Roads, Streets and Drainage.

Not Only Interested But Active—No Typhoid in Dunn—Crops Good and Splendid Business Expected This Fall.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Dunn, N. C., Aug. 28.—The large crop of grain raised in this section this year and the prospect of the farmers continuing to raise grain has resulted in the building of two large flour mills in this county, one at Coats, owned by Mr. P. F. Pope, and one at Dunn, owned by Mr. Geo. F. Pope. Mr. Sylvestus Neighbors, a prosperous farmer near Dunn, put up a modern flour mill several years ago and this had a fine effect in showing the farmers that they can raise their flour at home.

Mayor J. W. Turnage, who is chairman of the street committee, has been using the Dunn road force about three weeks in improving the streets of the town. He had so much needed work done that the majority of the streets are in fine shape. Broad street will be re-graded and graveled in the near future and this will put all the streets in fine condition for the winter.

The Dunn road force have made a contract with Duke township to gravel part of the road from Dunn to Duke, which lies in Duke township. When this part of the road is completed, the Dunn-Duke road will be one of the finest in the State.

The National Highway leading from Dunn to the Johnston county line has been recently surveyed by Mr. Toles, the government engineer, and as soon as the crops are gathered, a 30-foot roadway will be built to connect with the road recently built to Benson, to the Harnett county line. The road commissioners of the Dunn road district are planning to make a model piece of road of the National Highway leading through Harnett county.

From the expressions heard on every side of the good crops and the fact that the farmers have spent very little money this year, the indications are that there will be a general revival of business throughout Harnett county this fall.

Following the examples of the progressive communities throughout the State, the city fathers have been giving free typhoid vaccinations for some months and the city health officer reports that there is not a single case of typhoid fever in town. Freedom from fever can be attributed in part to the strict enforcement of sanitary laws and of the use of the new sewerage system which was completed last summer.

The Southern Drainage & Construction Co., of Kinston, launched their dredge last week and began work on draining the swamps in Stewart's Creek Drainage District. They will dig about 13 miles of canal, which will drain about 7,000 acres of the finest land in Harnett county, situated between Linden and Duke on the west side of the Cape Fear river.

Hon. H. L. Godwin has sold the wooden buildings on Railroad street, where the old McLeod Hotel was situated, and is understood will be rebuilt with brick in the near future. Several property owners in town have placed the material for new residences and from all indications Dunn has resumed her normal condition in the building industry.

The Dunn tobacco market will open on September 4th, and it is understood that the two large brick warehouses will have buyers from the leading tobacco companies, and as there is quite a good deal of tobacco planted in this country, the warehousemen are anticipating large sales of tobacco.

THEATRICAL

An impressive feature film production of unusual importance and power is the Famous Players-Paramount five-part adaptation of Wilson Barrett's supreme dramatic triumph, "The Sign of the Cross," on at the Grand tomorrow. The subject is an elaborate version of Wilson Barrett's wonderful popular drama which has stirred the emotions of every civilized race throughout the world for many years.

Comparison, at least as regards settings and scenic effects, must necessarily be instituted between this and other plays previously produced dealing with the same characters and period, and it must be truthfully said that the value of the present production is greatly enhanced by such a comparison, and while it loses nothing in elaboration of detail, it has the advantage of a story which has so firmly established itself in the favor of the public.

The part of Marcus Superbas, the dominant character in the powerful play, is impressively portrayed by William Farnum, one of the foremost actors of classical roles on the American stage, who is eminently fitted for the part in "The Sign of the Cross." A notable cast has been selected in his support, and hundreds of supers, a series of overwhelmingly beautiful settings and a tableaux of effectively dramatic scenes further aid the production in being one of the most exceptional film subjects ever offered. The degree of power and emotional appeal of the drama is almost immeasurable, and it should exert a tremendous effect upon the feelings of all audiences that witness it. The subject can be safely termed one of the greatest photo-spectacles ever screened.

Wilmington Movies at the Bijou.

Tomorrow all roads and streets will lead to the Bijou, for not only will all of Wilmington want to see the Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach movies made two weeks ago, but the whole of New Hanover county is expected to be there.

There are two big reels of the production, and it is indeed one of the best pictures ever made of its kind anywhere. The committee of 100 leading citizens who viewed it last week kept up a continuous applause as the different scenes of "Greater Wilmington" were flashed on the screen. It is as clear in photography as any moving picture you ever saw, and one can readily recognize any face in any of the pictures.

The Bijou will show the picture for two days only—Monday and Tuesday—and it is likely that capacity crowds will witness every performance ofr the whole two days. It would be a good idea to come in the afternoons if you want to get a seat, as there is no doubt but that many will be turned away tomorrow night and Tuesday night, too.

In addition to these two reels, the regular program will be shown, headed by a great two-reel human interest drama, "His Beloved Violin," featuring Murdock MacQuarrie and Adele Farrington, a story that will touch the heart strings of every one.

Then there will be a great Nestor comedy feature, "Dan Cupid, Fixer," featuring Lee Moran, Billie Rhodes, and the rest of the "gang."

Bath, Me., Aug. 28.—Secretary Daniels arrived here on board the gunboat Dolphin today to inspect the plant of the Bath Iron Works, where the construction of two torpedo boat destroyers was begun a short time ago. The secretary was accompanied by his wife and three sons. They will leave tomorrow for North Haven, where a call will be made at the summer home of the Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Later the party will go to Bar Harbor.

Little Negro Robs Bank at Lumberton

GETS $800 IN CASH IN MID-DAY LIGHT, BUT OFFICERS GET NEGRO AND MONEY BEFORE HE LEAVES TOWN.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 28.—A daring robbery occurred here today at 11 o'clock when Elliott Merrick, a 10-year-old negro, stole $800 in cash from the Farmers & Merchants Bank. Cashier Barnes stepped out a moment asking one of the directors, who was present in the bank, to watch for him. During his absence the sneak slipped around behind the counter and, grabbing a package of money, slipped out without detection.

Upon his return Mr. Barnes missed the money. Chief Redfern was on another chase and Sheriff Lewis and deputies were soon on the track of the bank robber. In a short time he was under arrest and all the money but $22 recovered. Merrick is in jail.

WILSON COUNTY LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED.

Wilson Will Have Expert Cotton Grader—Police Arrest 19 Women.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Aug. 28.—The Wilson County Live Stock Association was organized here today, following a mass meeting of many of the county's prominent farmers called for the purpose of advancing the growing of livestock in this section. The officers elected were: Mr. W. J. Davis, president; Mr. W. W. Graves, vice president; Mr. W. S. Harris, secretary. The meeting was featured by an address by Prof. Curtis, of A. & M. College, head of the beef cattle industry in that institution.

The government's cotton expert grader is expected in Wilson any day now. Mr. W. R. Dixon, of the Farmers' Union, has notified the governmental department that Wilson has done its part towards securing the grader, as demanded by the government. They have raised the $400, and secured an office for him. All the cotton will be graded now by this expert free of cost to the farmer.

The police raided the red light district of Wilson Thursday night and arrested 19 women. All of them gave bond to appear in the mayor's court Monday morning where they will answer to a charge of running a bawdy house. The officers declare that they have the evidence to convict. The present administration says that this is only the beginning of a crusade to clean up Wilson, and that bawdy house keepers, gamblers and whiskey venders must leave or take the consequences.

Prominent Business Man of St. Pauls in Serious Condition.

St. Pauls, N. C., Aug. 28.—The people of this town and section have been shocked to learn that Mr. L. Shaw, a leading business man of St. Pauls and well and favorably known throughout the upper Cape Fear section, suffered a serious stroke of paralysis yesterday on a Southern Railway train between Montreat and Morganton while returning with Mrs. Shaw from the Presbyterian mountain retreat where they had been spending some time. The news came in a telegram received by Mr. A. R. McEachern, which stated that Mr. Shaw, who was taken off the train to a hospital at Morganton, was helpless and unconscious.

TEST CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE TEXAS WAREHOUSE LAW

Claimed Ginners and Farmers Lose $1,500,000 Annually Because of It.

Tyler, Texas, Aug. 28.—Much interest was manifestd by cotton men throughout the South today in a test of constitutionality of the Texas warehouse law begun here by Dabney White, secretary of the Texas Ginners' Association and extensive owner of gin property. Mr. White claims the law is unconstitutional because it forces ginners and farmers to lose $1,500,000 annually in sampling cotton at the gin without receiving any benefits as samples have proved worthless in trading.

The People Behind Your Bell Telephone

YOU are perhaps familiar with the local Exchange Manager. You rarely, if ever see the board operator who handles your calls or the trouble-man who protects your service and the cablemen who place the talk tracks underground.

There are a lot of these people, but they are only a few of the many kinds of workers in the great army of 150,000 Bell employes pulling together to maintain the Bell high standard of efficiency, and giving the highest type of service to the American people.

It requires lots of other capable people to furnish efficient service to the subscribers in this city. The intricate mechanism of the extensive system must be kept in perfect order day and night and the service must always be up to the high standard of the universal Bell telephone system.

GERMANY CAN'T CARRY ON WAR SIX MONTHS LONGER IF SHE CAN'T GET COTTON

Is Declaration of Writer From Rotterdam, Who Says Kaiser's Forces Are Shooting Away 800 to 1,000 Tons in High Explosives Every Day — Embargo Illegal, But is Very Necessary.

(By John L. Balderston.)

Rotterdam, Aug. 15. — The attempt by England to prevent cotton of the 1914 crop from entering Germany was a disastrous failure. Because England kept her own mills open and failed to keep from her enemies the raw material for high explosives, the cotton growers of the Southern States were saved from the ruin which seemed to threaten them after war broke out. England is now preparing to make cotton absolute contraband and to take such measures against Holland and the other neutral North Sea countries as will prevent one metric ton of raw cotton from entering Germany next winter and spring. Last winter and last spring at least 500,000 metric tons of raw cotton were imported by Germany.

This article contains material compiled in England; in Germany, where the vital need for cotton as the equivalent in modern war of gun powder in former struggles is frankly admitted; in Holland, through which in devious ways has trickled much of the precious commodity, now worth more to the Central European empires than copper or wheat or even gold.

The situation from the point of view of England will be considered first, because I must emphasize what is perfectly clear in London, but probably imperfectly understood across the water, that the amount of consideration—and consideration in this case means hard cash—received by the South for the 1915 cotton crop depends entirely on the attitude in the immediate future of the United States towards the English embargo.

Lion Fears Whip and Revolver.

The old British lion is proceeding most cautiously, with one eye steadily fixed on Uncle Sam. This lion regards Uncle Sam as the lion in the circus looks upon the gentleman in tights with the big whip and the revolver. The whip is Uncle Sam's control of the export of war munitions, vital to the success of the Allies. The revolver is the American navy. The lion is desperately afraid of the whip. He is not exactly afraid of the revolver, because he knows that will never be used unless he himself forces its use, but still he knows the revolver is there. Uncle Sam sometimes has doubts about whether the revolver would go off; but the lion in the last extremity would do anything at all rather than risk that weapon being fired at him simultaneously with the similar one held by Kaiser Wilhelm.

England will make whatever concessions to the United States cotton growers she is forced to make. I have been told privately that the government has already decided to pay any sum necessary to quiet the American producers when the real embargo on the 1915 crop, to which the embargo on the 1914 crop was a joke, comes into effect. But England will pay no more than she has to pay, and that is why it behooves the South to howl, loud and long. If Washington heeds that howl it will be heeded in London. The extreme length to which England will go next winter, in my opinion, will be to pay about $150,000,000 for the cotton which under normal conditions would be imported into Germany and Austria and agree to keep that cotton stored until after the war, so that the normal purchases of British manufacturers from America will not be affected by the deal. But before such a sum is paid over, the very heavens will resound with appeals from John Bull to hands-across-the-sea, blood-is-thicker-than-water friendship, and with groans and threats.

Kills Cotton Trade With Neutrals.

In connection with the restriction of trade between neutrals, enforced by the Order of Council of last March, the contraband ruling will kill the cotton trade with the North Sea neutrals. Under present conditions cotton seized on the ocean and taken to port is paid for by the British, but when it becomes absolutely contraband it will be liable to confiscation, and so will the ship that carries it, if the views of the extremists prevail. This will apply to all cotton destined for Holland or Scandinavia, excepting the "rations" for those countries which Lord Robert Cecil has announced are under consideration, allowances based on their imports of cotton before the war. The threat of confiscation of ships carrying other cotton will prevent the ships from leaving port, it is hoped.

What is England's justification for this amazing programme, which ignores the rights of the United States and of other neutral countries with whom she is extremely anxious to maintain good relations, and whose military aid she hopes to gain before the war is over?

Simply this: The continued importation of American cotton, in England's opinion, will enable Germany to win the war, or to greatly prolong it, the complete stoppage of the cotton trade will force Germany to her knees within a year. England has planned an act which is as illegal, if not as immoral, as the German invasion of Belgium, and the reason for the two offenses is the same: "Necessity knows no law." Germany may have been wrong about the necessity of invading Belgium; England may be wrong about the necessity of stopping the cotton trade; it matters not the slightest, so long as each country is convinced that the necessity exists.

Is a War of High Explosives.

The facts of the cotton question as it affects the result of the war will now be presented. They have been obtained from official or semi-official sources. My authority for the most controversial statements I am about to make, those concerning the amount of cotton in German ammunition, is Hillaire Belloc, the foremost military critic in England, and perhaps in Europe.

This is a war of high explosives, in which gunpowder plays a minor role. The substitute for gunpowder is cotton. Cotton is the base of nearly all the explosive compounds which send forth shells and bullets from modern weapons. Cotton to become high explosive must be nitrated, that is treated with chemicals. All the chemicals out of which high explosives are made can be obtained in Germany and Austria, and if they could not be otherwise manufactured they could be obtained out of the air by a costly process. Wood pulp, it has been suggested, could be used instead of cotton as the basis of high explosive, but experiments have not been satisfactory, and in any case to change all the processes for making great quantities of explosive in the midst of a great war would involve fatal delay and confusion.

The great German 42-centimeter howitzer, which has battered down so many "impregnable" fortresses, shoots away a bale of cotton in two shots. An ordinary field gun of about four-inch caliber shoots a bale of cotton in about 400 rounds. Heavier cannon expend cotton in proportion.

A machine gun, of which Germany has 100,000 in the trenches, has with it constantly reserve ammunition containing half a bale of cotton, while every company of 300 soldiers carries at all times three bales of cotton in the shape of cartridges. About 80,000 shots from a rifle or machine gun account for one bale of cotton.

Germans Shooting 800 Tons of Cotton Daily.

Now from these facts it is possible roughly to calculate the amount of cotton that the Germans and Austrians are shooting away on the battlefields. The cotton used by the Allies does not matter, because their supply is unlimited. Two hundred and fifty thousand shells a day on the average are fired by the Germans and Austrians on all fronts, according to calculations made by David Lloyd George, British Minister of Munitions. Taking big and little cannon together, it may be estimated that 150 shots account for a bale of cotton, and on this basis Germany fires 1,660 bales of cotton a day from her artillery alone. This amounts to slightly more than 400 tons. It is not so easy to under estimate the millions of cartridges expended daily, but the total cotton fired from machine guns and rifles is not less, and is probably more, than that fired from cannon. So we get a figure of not less than 800 tons of cotton a day shot off by German armies. Hilarie Belloc, who would not be likely to be over-conservative in his estimate, says he thinks 1,000 tons would be nearer the mark.

Germany, producing no cotton and having prepared in advance for war, stored a certain reserve to make sure she would not be caught short. But she did not expect a war of a year or more. Her calculations were based on victory within six or eight months. Furthermore, the immense expenditure of shells under the new conditions of trench warfare took Germany, like everybody else, by surprise. She was able, however, to import as much of the 1914 cotton crop as usual, during the past winter and spring, through the surrounding neutral countries. This will be proved later by official statistics. A very large part of the 500,000 tons imported has been used for making explosives, the great German cotton mills which normally operate 9,800,000 spindles having curtailed their consumption at first by one-half, and more recently by two-thirds.

Germany's Stock a Million Bales.

About one-half of the cotton imported since the war began has been stored by Germany as an ammunition reserve. She has at present something like a million bales, or 250,000 tons available. Austria has no reserve of cotton. Supposing Germany to receive no more cotton from now on, she will be unable to make any more of the standard high explosives after those 250,000 tons of cotton are used up. Very recently, probably because the German spy system has reported that England at least is preparing to entirely stop the cotton trade, the German authorities have forbidden the manufacture of all excepting the most necessary cotton goods, and in the manufacture of these have forbidden the use of any but prescribed yarns. These restrictions, the order states, do not apply to firms working "on military contracts."

Supposing that the manufacture of cotton for commercial purposes is entirely stopped, the present reserve will enable Germany to make about 150,000 tons of high explosives. This is a high estimate. Not all the cotton Germany has can be used for explosives, for armies must have cotton for clothing, bedding, tents, ground sheets, tarpaulin; even motor cars cannot be run without cotton, used in making rubber tires. Cotton is used in all munition factories in some processes, so that a cotton famne would paralyze a modern army, entirely aside from the scarcity of ammunition it would cause.

Since Germany can make less than 150,000 tons of high explosives, rather than more, out of her present reserve of a million bales, and since from 800 to 1,000 tons of cotton are fired away daily on the battlelines, the following facts are true:

Enough to Last Till January.

The Germanic powers have at present enough cotton to maintan their present ammunition expenditure until January 1, provided they are now using 1,000 tons a day at the front.

They cannot keep on fighting at the present rate on their present cotton supply beyond the end of the first week in February, if they are using only 800 tons a day in shell and small-arm fire.

Should the German supply run out entirely, any prices at all would be offered surrounding neutral states for cotton. Those states, with their imports entirely cut off, might be able between them, by using no cotton themselves for commercial purposes to supply 50,000 tons to Germany. They could not supply more, for they have already sent into Germany practically all the surplus cotton they have imported from America.

This extra supply of 50,000 tons would prolong Germany's ammunition supply until the latter part of February if she and Austria are shooting off 1,000 tons a day; until the end of March, if 800 tons is the correct figure. Here Germany would have come to the end of her rope, excepting insofar as she could prolong her resistance by economizing on shells and bullets, and such economy with the allied supply of projectiles continually increasing would rapidly lead to the destruction of the Teutonic armies.

The mere threat of England to declare cotton contraband has aroused outward indignation and perhaps inward consternation in Germany. Count von Reventlow, the naval expert, said recently:

"If England declared cotton contraband it would be a terrible and almost unbearable blow for the populations of neutral countries and their whole economic system. Moreover, Great Britain would take the opportunity to obtain complete control by means of her agents and spies of the trade of these neutral countries and use the position thus gained for the benefit of British industry and British trade. The measure would be directed not against the military efficiency of Germany, but against the economic independence of the neutral states."

A New Labor Problem.

The severe restrictions now placed upon the manufacture of cotton goods have created a new labor problem. About 30,000 men will be put out of work in the Chemnitz district, and negotiations are proceeding between the government authorities and representatives of the textile industry. Public meetings are being arranged all over Saxony, and the local authorities threaten to close such meetings unless the manuscripts of all speeches are submitted in advance for official approval. There is special anxiety in the towel industry of Saxony, and the firms are appealing to the government for leave to use up their existing stocks.

A few figures will show how the 2,000,000 bales of cotton which reached Germany since the war began were obtained from America. First, a few thousand bales came direct to German ports. Before the British Order in Council forbidding all trade with the enemy half a dozen yankee ships braved the mines and sailed into Bremen or Hamburg. But there were too many mines to make this voyage profitable, for after a couple of disasters insurance rates mounted sky-high; and then came the British blockade. Direct importation of cotton from the United States has not taken place since the war began in sufficient amount to be worth attention, and since March 11 not one American cotton ship has reached Germany.

There remain the four neutral states, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, which have access to Germany, either directly or across the Baltic sea under the protection of German warships. Italy, long before she declared war, refused to permit the passage of cotton to her future enemies.

Imports by North Sea Neutrals.

Here are official figures of the four North sea neutrals which tell an amazing story. The imports of American cotton to Holland from August 31 to April 30, 1913-14 (the 1913 crop), were 32,870 bales. In 1914-15 (the 1914 crop), the imports amounted to 413,820 bales! In the same month Sweden imported 24,930 bales the year before the war and 735,510 bales in 1914-15! To Denmark, of the 1913 crop no bales at all were sent, but the melancholy Danes "consumed" of last year's crop 65,370 bales. Norway took 60 bales before the war and her imports rose in a year to 107,400 bales.

Considerably more than half of the cotton Germany has received since the war broke out is accounted for in these figures. But the British claim that even these official reports of the neutral governments are doctored and purposely delayed. Cotton imports, they say, have been even greater than admitted. Lord Emmott, president of the War Trade Department of the British government, which issues licenses for the export of goods to neutral countries, says that "twice as much cotton entered Holland in March as was shown in the official Dutch figures."

Germany's Way of Getting Cotton.

Germany has succeeded not only in importing raw cotton for high explosives under the name of English warships, as the figures given indicate, but she has actually imported cotton yarn from England during the war out of which to make her indispensable fabrics, so that her precious store of raw cotton, which is potential ammunition may not be wasted in making mere cloth. This is shown by figures in the Cotton Gazette of Liverpool, which shows that the exports of cotton yarn from England to Norway were 218,700 pounds in June, 1914, and 348,300 pounds in June, covering the same periods the exports to Holland were 3,200,800 pounds, and 4,493,300 pounds, respectively; to Denmark, 106,400 pounds and 204,700 pounds, and to Sweden 108,900 pounds, and 260,800.

The success of Germany in importing her usual amount of raw cotton from the 1914 American crop was not due to England's lack of knowledge of what was going on, but to England's fear of getting in trouble with America if she took more radical measures to stop the traffic. In October last an effort was made to prevent Holland from selling cotton to Germany by forming the Netherlands Overseas Trust. This organization of influential and wealthy Dutchmen guaranteed that no goods imported in their name should reach the Germans. No cotton was allowed to go into Holland from that time forth unless it was consigned to and accepted by this trust.

Overseas Trust a Joke.

The Netherlands Overseas Trust and their guarantees are jokes. Everybody in Holland has long known this, and the British know it now. The figures I have given prove it, for the cotton sent into Holland since the war began, thirteen times Holland's normal consumption according to her own figures and twenty-times as much according to the British, was all consigned to the Netherlands Overseas Trust, and consequently guaranteed against reshipment. A large consignment of ferro-manganese was recently sent into Holland, consigned to the Overseas Trust. Ferro-manganese is used only for smelting, and there is not one smelting furnace in the Netherlands.

The figures given in this article will have served their purpose if they make it clear in America why Great Britain considers herself forced to make absolutely certain that no cotton of the crop of 1915 reaches her enemies. When the war began, most people, including most officials, did not think it was going to be a long one, and the average Englishman if he thought about cotton at all thought that Germany had enough stored up to last her for the duration of the conflict. It was six months before people began to agitate for a cotton embargo that should be really effective. Now they are going to get it.

England's maximum concession to the United States will be the purchase of that part of the 1915 cotton crop which usually goes to Germany and Austria, with the understanding that no more cotton may be supplied to Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden than those countries used the year before war began, which only amounted to a little more than 60,000 bales. This would cost England about $150,000,000 at ten cents a pound, the price most generally mentioned. An agreement would be made not to sell the cotton until after the war, so that the gigantic transaction would not affect the market price this year.

Warsaw, N. C., Aug. 28.—There was the largest tobacco break of the season here on Friday. Fully 60,000 pounds were sold at the two warehouses, bringing an average price of eight cents. The heaviest sales are expected in September and October, and the two new prixeries being now completed, the facilities for handling large quantities of tobacco are much greater than in former seasons.

WAR BRINGS UNITED STATES RECORD-BREAKING COMMERCE

New York Handles Exports $250,000,000 in Excess of Highest Previous Record—Other Ports Share in Prosperity. "Land Yacht" Odd on Transcontinental Cruise. Norway Buys Sugar in United States.

New York, Aug. 28.—In the early stages of the European war it was feared that it would deal a serious blow to the commerce of the United States, and particularly to New York as the principal seaport of the country. Instead of this the actual effect as the war as shown by figures just compiled here covering the last fiscal year has been to carry the figures of imports and exports passing in and out of this harbor to the highest figures ever recorded. The total value of merchandise passing through this portal during the year was $2,125,000,000 as compared with $1,905,000,000 in 1914 and $1,966,000,000 in 1913, the highest previous record. While war conditions caused the value of imports to decline by over $100,000,000 they also caused an advance of ovre $250,000,000 in the total value of export commodities.

New York's nearest competitors in the handling of the record breaking foreign commerce of the past year have been New Orleans, Boston and Galveston. All of these, and the smaller ports as well, have benefited by the tremendous demands for foodstuffs and supplies on the part of the warring nations. The figures of exports recorded from day to day since the end of June indicate that by December 31 the value of the goods sold to Europe will have attained such proportions as to place the record for the calender year far in excess of that for the fiscal year just completed.

A party of ten prominent New Yorkers left the city this week in the largest and most completely equipped "gypsy motor van" in the world, for a transcontinental tour of the United States,, their ultimate destination being the Panama Exposition. The most impressive feature of this prairie schooner deluxe, or "land yacht" as it is called by its owner, is its size. Over all it is twenty-five feet in length, six inches longer than the familiar Fifth avenue busses, seven and one-half feet wide and thirteen feet high. It weighs between seven and eight tons, and is of the double decker type, with accommodations for passengers both inside and on top. Meals for the party will be cooked on an electric range in a galley, which is equipped with a sink with running water, and an ice box. Tanks on the upper deck carry hot and cold water. There is also a shower bath in the car, and sleeping accommodations for eight people in an after compartment finished in white enamel. On the upper deck are lockers for guns, fishing tackle and commissary supplies, while one locker contains a motorcycle which can be lowered to the ground by means of a davit. Every inch of space not need for comfort is used as closet room and drawers.

Norway is another European country which will probably be added to the growing list of nations which have been forced to turn to New York and the American market for sugar because of the locking up of the sugar supplies of Central Europe due to the war. Germany and Austria now absolutely prohibit the export of sugar. Denmark which formerly supplied Norway with sugar has sold its entire surplus to England. Sweden has a surplus for export of 35,000 tons, of which the Norwegian government food commission recently bought 15,000 tons, and it is said that the remaining 20,000 has been bought by one of the belligerent countries to prevent it from falling into the hands of their enemies. With the consumption of Norway's purchase from Sweden, the easiest and most logical source to draw further supplies from will be United States, and it is considered almost a certainty that such will be the case, and that the supplies will be obtained in the New York market. With these constant increasing drains upon the American supply, bound to effect local sugar prices, the opinion is growing heer that the United States should encourage the development of the home production of sugar so that in emergencies arising from war, short world crops, or other unexpected exigencies American consumers will have an adequate supply of sugar and not be compelled to submit to exorbitant prices.

Uncle Sam is to soon open in the New York custom house a commodious sample room, where American manufacturers and exporters will be afforded up-to-date facilities for studying the needs of foreign trade. The demand for information concerning trade opportunities and methods of communication with foreign markets has increased to such an extent in the past few months that the Federal government has decided on a permanent display, in order to aid the nation's business men in the present aggressive campaign to widen the sale of American products in all quarters of the globe. This sample room will not resemble a museum but will contain samples and exhibits gathered from foreign countries which will be constantly changed to meet new requirements. These will represent the class of goods and commodities desired by buyers in all parts of the world, although trade with South America will be emphasized and given a large share of the room. With this visual information attainable, American merchants will have an advantage in competing with other nations for foreign trade that they have never enjoyed before and will be enabled to deliver the character of merchandise particularly adapted and desired by each country.

New York's narrowest and smallest apartment house, also noted as a famous "spite house" located at Lexington avenue and Eighty-Second street is to come down to make way for a new eleven-story building which is to occupy much larger space. The house which is five stories high, is built on a strip of land 5 to 100 feet. It was built by a wealthy contractor to spite a neighbor who would not pay the price he demanded for the property. This small structure has been one of the architectural curios of the city. Bay windows made it possible to inhabit it. Access to the various rooms being obtained with a spiral stairway. Occupants of the house were obliged to make use of furniture expressly built to fit the rooms.

A SILLY AND MEAN ATTACK

Memphis Commercial Appeal.

As a complete exhibit of meanness in type, we print in another column the full editorial of the Chicago Tribune on the lynching of Leo Frank.

The brain out of whose threads this editorial was woven is as anarchical and as ignorant as was that of any man composing the mob that lynched Frank.

The lynching of Frank was an infamous, cowardly act. It has been denounced by every reputable Southern power, and by every man whose opinion is worth anything in the South.

If the lynching of Frank was a disgrace to the whole South, it equally disgraced the United States. But to seize upon the incident as a means of indicting the entire South, of indicting the entire State of Georgia, is illogical, unfair and absurd.

To put all the citizenship of the South in one class and then to denounce them as utterly lawless, ignorant and worthless shows a degree of ignorance and bigotry which few of the most illiterate of the Southern people are capable of reaching.

The Chicago Tribune says "the South is backward. It shames the United States by illiteracy and incompetency."

Wherein is the citizenship of the territory over which the Tribune circulates more advanced than the citizenship of the territory throughout which this paper circulates?

There is not an equality of opportunity in the Chicago territory which does not also exist in the Memphis or Atlanta territory. Labor is not exploited in the South around Memphis as it is around Chicago.

In proportion to property, the taxation for education is greater in the Memphis territory than it is in the Chicago territory.

The scale of living among the poor in the Southern territory is higher than it is among the poor in and around Chicago.

There is crime in our territory, much of it, but it is for the most part the crime of hot blood—the breaking of the law by the forces of sudden anger.

There are not the crimes here that mark the degeneracy of people that there are in and around Chicago.

Those unlawful vices which mark the bestiality of man are rare here as compared to their number in Chicago.

We are not attempting to answer the Chicago Tribune's attack by the easy tu quoque method. This method proves nothing, except the folly of throwing stones from one glass house into another.

There is illiteracy ni the South in proportion to the number of people greater than in some of the other parts of the United States. But illiteracy does not presuppose viciousness or meanness. An illiterate man may not be a stupid man. An illiterate community may be an intelligent community. Literacy is a tremendously fine instrument to be used in the development of humankind, but literacy alone will not save.

The South appreciates the value of education and is making tremendous sacrifices to haev all of its people benefitted by that knowledge which comes from education. But all illiterate people are not bad people. Some of the strongest men who went out from Kentucky and Virginia and from North Carolina ,and were pioneers in Illinois, were unlettered. A great number of those who fought in the War of the Revolution could read only a horn book, and then only by spelling out the words.

The Chicago Tribune excuses outbreaks in the North, charging them to the gutter rats of society, and alleges that there always follows shame in the community at what has been done. We wish this were always true, but it is not.

The crimes in the North which should bring a shame to the community are sometimes regarded by the community with extreme indifference. Illinois has had its lynchings almost as infamous as was the lynching of Frank. If a Lake Shore Drive lady at the same time gave a party to some Wassерman tester count the Tribune forgot the lynching for the "function."

Organized privilege, until the quickening influences of the last ten years began to assert themselves, murdered men, women and children in factories through selfish greed. These crimes are rightly chargeable to those highest in the Northern social circles.

Murder is murder, wherever it is done, but it is worse to do a murder by proxy than to commit the act in person. In the South armed guards and special deputies do not shoot down men and women who are protesting for enough money to buy food and then denounce the dead as ignorant and anarchistic labor skates.

The last paragraph of the Tribune article is the ooze of the malevolence of the mind that composed it.

"The South is half educated," says The Tribune. "It is a region of illiteracy, blatant self-righteousness, cruelty and violence. Until it is improved by the infusion of better blood and better ideas it will remain a reproach and a danger to the Amercan republic."

Shall we send to Chicago and secure this "better blood" from the vicinity of the pigsties and glue factories of the South side? Shall we get it from the vicinity of Harrison Street station, from Custom House Place, from Wells Street and from the other sinks whose owners coin their degeneracies into dollars which bear no smell, and spend the money in drunken debauches at society functions?

Shall we get the blood infusion from the North side, with its divorces and its wife swapping?

Will some of the present and past controlling owners of the Tribune come down here and by their personal conduct be to us a living example of what decent minded able-bodied, sober Americans should be?

Or shall we take the report of the Chicago vice commission and and the legislative commission on the minimum wage, and after reading these shall we ask for an infusion of blood from those who are the leaders in a community where such conditions exist?

In its heart the South denounced the lynching of Frank. It is crime against the individual, against the law and against the state.

The people of the South are weak and frail, as are the other children of men. But they are not cursed with the vice of phariseeism. They resent such exhibitions of malevolent cant as this cowardly and ignorance-steeped outbreak on the part of the Chicago Tribune.

Frequently the bad disposition of people originate with an unhealthy, uncomfortable childhood. Babies need not be uncomfortable from chafing and many of the ills of childhood if AMEN'S PRICKLY HEAT & BABY POWDER (THE ANTISEPTIC TOILET POWDER) is used. Price 25 cents at your druggist.

Bigger Tires At Lower Prices

Sizes 30 x 3½ and 30 x 3

This year we have added to Goodyear Small-size tires these three vast improvements:

We have added 20% to the air capacity, which means much added size. The larger a tire the more it will carry, as you know. Or the longer it will carry any certain load.

We have added 30% to the side wall strength. That's where constant bending breaks a thin-walled tire—just above the rim.

And we've improved the tire's design in new ways found to give it added strength.

Cost $317,000

These improvements, on this year's output, will cost us $317,000.

Yet this year we made another big price reduction—our third in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Super Tires

These are Goodyear tires which we have bettered—the leading tires. They have for years, on sheer merit, outsold any other.

Now we have added vast extra capacity. We have added much extra strength. No other tires in the world in these sizesgive such value for the money.

Be sure that you get them.

"CHINESE GOODS FOR CHINA" LATEST SLOGAN

Represents Boycott Against Japanese Goods, Modified.

President's Decree That There Should Be No Boycott Against Japanese Goods Has Had No Effect —More Than Ever.

Peking, Aug. 28.—"Chinese goods for China" is the latest slogan in the new republic. It represents the boycott against Japanese goods in a modified form, a form against which Japan can offer little objection.

President Yuan Shi Kai's decree that there should be no boycott against Japan as a result of the Japanese demands upon China, has had no effect. In fact boycotting has become more marked. It is an affair wholly beyond the control of the Chinese government.

But the boycott has been given a new twist by the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce and other commercial organizations which have started the "home-made goods movement." The campaign is ostensibly directed against all wares not manufactured in China, but the Chinese have shown a greater disposition to do without Japanese goods than the products of other nations.

Cheap cotton goods and cigarettes have suffered more than other Japanese products, perhaps, as a result of the boycott. Japanese goods are sold in China through Japanese selling agencies. Consequently Chinese merchants have no trouble in avoiding the wares of the country against which they feel a grievance. The falling off in the sale of cheap Japanese cotton goods has been so marked that Japan is seeking a market in India. A commission recently visited that country and another Japanese commission is to go later.

A delegation from the Osaka Chamber of Commerce visited Hong Kong, Shanghai and other Chinese cities in an effort to conciliate the Chinese merchants. It was announced that the feeling against Japanese manufacturers was due to misunderstanding which doubtless be removed by closer personal relations. Similar "get acquainted" movements have been organized by other Japanese commercial associations, but apparently without marked success.

Japanese shipping has been especially hard hit by the boycott. The ships of the Toyen Kisen Kaisha, which formerly carried several hundred Chinese in the steerage each trip, now seldom carry a single citizen of the new republic. Chinese freight has also been diverted from the Japanese lines whenever possible. Chinese coolies and Chinese commercial concerns of large influence are lending a hand alike in the boycott.

One of the features of the home-made goods movement which may be of great interest to the United States is the effort to stimulate cotton manufacturing and cotton growing. Japan formerly supplied largely quantities of coarse cotton goods to China. The Chinese now hope to supply this themselves and are striving to interest capital in the enlargement of spinning works operating in Shanghai and Hong Kong.

No reliable figures are available concerning the cotton manufacturies of Japan, but it is estimated that the number of spindles in the republic varies from 900,000 to 1,200,000. Limited quantities of coarse cloth are made in nearly every province on hand looms. Coarse twist of foreign and home manufacture has been used in making this cloth. Printed cloth, as well as plain, has been made the printing having ben done chiefly on second hand presses purchased in Japan. The wooden looms used by the primitive Chinese factories are mostly operated by hand and the output of each loom of this character is about three yards an hour. Machinery for ginning, spinning and weaving is mostly very crude and imcapable of supplyig the finer grades of cloth now brought from England United States, France and other European countries.

China imported about $105,000,000 worth of manufactured cotton in 1912. Of this amount about $67,000,000 worth was coarse fabrics and yarns of a sort which Chinese factories could produce. The same year it is estimated China raised slightly more than 300,000 tons of native cotton, only a small percentage of the amount required by its own factories.

Cotton is growing in eight of the southwestern provinces and in the Yangstze province, but the cultivation is so clumsy that the yield per acre is small. Definite figures are not available, but the highest yield per acre is said to have been 176 pounds of cleaned cotton. Poor seed and bad cultivation are responsible for the short crop, as much of the land is said to be admirably adapted to cotton growing.

It is estimated that the amount of land in China available for cotton culture is 27,000,000 acres, with a possible increase of 2,000,000 acres through irrigation.

However, the successful extension of cotton manufacturing in China would necessitate a complete reorganization of its economic system. About half of the Central government's income is derived from the import duty on manufactured cotton.

With the abolition of opium manufacture, the government endeavored to persuade poppy farmers to turn their attention to cotton. This movement was not as successful as officials desired, but the minister of agriculture is endeavoring, through experimental farmers, to popularize modern plows and make cotton more profitable.

Since the presentation of Japanese demands upon China a popular defense fund of about $35,000,000 (gold) has been subscribed. It is proposed to establish a bank with part of this fund which shall lend money to Chinese cotton mills and other industries which will make China more independent of other nations and keep its money at home.

Dr. Wu Ting-Fang and many other prominent Chinese are lending their support to this new industrial movement the Chinese honory commercial commission, which has just completed a tour of the United States, is interested especially in inducing foreign capital to come to China, and through its observation of American methods hope to be able to direct Chinese industries into more progressive channels.

FRIVOLITY—ITS DANGERS AND ITS REMEDIES

Ecc. 8:1-13.

Perhaps no other man in all history is better able to give us a real description of the true dangers of frivolity than Solomon. He was a king, and made an experiment along royal lines. Therefore he had both the power and financial ability to try the experiment to the full limit. Therefore when he reached a conclusion and came back and said, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," he knew what he was talking about.

When one tries the experiment of frivolity, sensual pleasure, and self-indulgence he confronts first of all the possibility of the experiment being a failure. He can not be sure of success. And whether he knows it or not, the man who makes pleasure an end of his life is sure to forget that God has a great purpose in his life. This does not mean that pleasure and amusement are forbidden. They are to take the form only of recreation. Recreation ought to be of the nature of rest. Recreation that conserves, restores ,upbuilds and thereby helps is of the right kind. But recreation that enervates degenerates, and dissipates is of the wrong kind. And further than that, he who centers his thoughts and heart upon the pursuits of pleasure only injures every faculty of his soul. The health of the soul is thereby impaired, and the simplicity of the character is destroyed. Vital forces are expended in the wrong direction and the strength of his life is as if consumed by malignant tumors.

1. The understanding is impaired. He who devotes himself to pleasure has need only of those mental efforts necessary to devise new modes of pleasure. The highest powers remain unchallenged, unused and are enervated. He who would reach intellectual heights and render heroic service to God and mankind must learn "to scorn delights and live laborious days." As Ruskin says, "Self-denial is self-culture."

2. The affections are blunted. Indulgence even in refined worldly pleasures has a tendency to make life artificial and false. And beneath the apparent social gentleness and good will a heart is often hard and cold. They who spend their time and strength on soft social indulgence can weep over the elegant distress of characters in fiction, but are often unmoved by the real sorrows of life enacted under their own eyes.

3. The will is enfeebled. The seduction of pleasure leads to the formation of habits and pleasures that make a man selfish. The will loses its force and its elastic power becomes as dead as steel sprung by long compression. "The sirens of pleasure paralyze the will."

4. The sensibility of the conscience is injured. Continual pleasure sears the conscience. Its delicacy and tenderness become impaired.

Life is a gift of God, and has a purpose in it. Life confronts us with continual and increasing duties which have pleasure in them. Life confronts us with responsibilities which serve to make us strong.

If we properly value life and appreciate its privileges, we will become grateful and true gratitude shows itself in service. We will be continually distinguishing between what is worth while and what it not worth while. We will see the need of recreation and the dangers of frivolity. We will distinguish between the nature of true enjoyment and deceptive pleasure.

A pleasure is only a pleasure as long as it is of real benefit to the participant. If it affords or annoys or does harm to another it is selfish pleasure, frivilous, ignorant and shows lack of mental balance. And in all cases it is a nuisance.

Frivolity isusually a result of improper training of the parents. An improper view of life is given a child. The distinction between popularity and notoriety is not made clear, and loud talk and boisterous life are substituted for characteristics of real value not possessed.

Frivolity is usually the symptom of the adolescent age, when nature boils over in its simplicity, without the weight of education, of common sense, to give the proper balance.

Vanity is another symptom of frivolity. It is another method of advertising what the possessor considers charms. So much time can be spent on the little things of life, such as face powders, neckties and personal adornment, that it unbalances the senes of proportion and defeats the object for which they are used.

The remedy for frivolity is education. The burdens of life soon show things in their light and porportion. and while the individual may never attain the proper sense of balance and may still show ignorance to a profound degree, yet, they cannot be said to be frivilous after they have taken up the burdens of life. If they still remain abnormal it would be called mental deficiency.

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen,
Seen to oft, familiar with her face
We first pity, then endure, then embrace."

"Life is real, life is earnest;
And the grave is not its goal.
Dust thou art, to dust returnest
Was not spoken of the soul.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

BIG ADVANCE IN COTTON

Renewal of General Buying Sends Price, es More Than $2.50 Per Bale Over Friday's Closing Figures.

New York, Aug. 28.—There was a renewal of the general buying movement in the cotton market here today, which sent prices more than $2.50 per bale above Friday's closing figures, and closed the market strong at a net advance of 25 to 29 points, with December contracts selling at 10.20, or about $4 per bale above the low level of last Monday.

The opening was firm at an advance of 12 to 15 points on overnight buying orders and a broadening demand encouraged by further rains in the South, the reiteration of bullish predictions as to the showing of Monday's condition report, and the continued rumors that German interests were replacing cotton sold out at the beginning of last summer. There was a good deal of realizing, and rather more favorable crop reports from the Carolinas probably promoted some scattered selling for a reaction, but all offerings were readily taken at trifling concessions, and the demand became even more active late in the morning with October selling up to 9.90 and January to 10.34, while March touched 10.58, with active months generally showing net gains of from 25 to 29 points. Last prices were at practically the best of the day.

The final spurt of prices seemed to be largely the result of covering. A private crop report made the condition of the crop 71.5 against 77.9 last month.

Local warehouse stocks are losing moderately as a result of exports and the statistical position has been somewhat strengthened as a result of continued full spinners' takings. Detailed weather reports showed heavy rains in Northern and Central Texas.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Bulls Continued to Force Advances. Close Was at Heavy Gain.

New Orleans, Aug. 28.—Bulls continued to force advances in the cotton market today, basing their buying on bullish private condition reports and fresh rains in Texas. The rise was maintained up to the close, which was firm at a net gain of 22 to 24 points, or within a point of the best of the session. It was an active and excited day around the future ring and trading was heavy.

The opening was at the advance of good cables; brokers had large buying orders to fill, some of them apparently resulting from reports that a prominent private bureau would come out with a condition estimate of 70 per cent for the normal while another bureau was credited with condition figures of 69.7 as compared with 76.9 a month ago. The interior was a large buyer of futures, purchases being far in excess of offerings from spot centers in the way of hedges against actual cotton.

Crop accounts again were generally unfavorable and buying was stimulated by the storm area appearing over Texas, bulls making much of the heavy rains noted at a few points in that state.

At times realizing on long cotton brought about small reactions, but on the whole, offerings from this source were not large enough to exert pressure. The market was given a firm undertone by the belief in an unfavorable condition report by the government Monday.

Futures closed firm at an advance of 22 to 24 points. Closing: October 8.69; December 9.93; January 10.07; March 10.30; May 10.51.

Spot cotton quiet and steady, 12 points up. Sales on the spot 100; to arrive 1,950; middling 9.25.

STOCKS MODERATELY ACTIVE

Bulk of Trading in War Shares and Copper—U. S. Steel Yielded Slightly at Close—Obscure Stocks.

New York, Aug. 28.—Moderate activity with the usual week-end irregularity of prices were the principal features of today's stock market. The bulk of the trading was in war shares and copper, both groups displaying variable tendencies, probably was a result of contract settlements. Tennessee Copper was again the chief feature among the metals declining almost at the outset to 55 3-8, 3 1-8 points from yesterday's close and making only fractional recovery. Other coppers were consistently strong, but showed few material changes at the end. Other stocks, including fertilizers and chemicals rose and fell within 2 to 3 points limits. United States Steel repeated yesterday's high quotation of 77, but yielded slightly at the close on further profit taking. In final dealings there came a demand for such obscure stocks as Western Maryland and a few other minor railways. On a single sale of 100 shares, Bethlehem Steel preferred dropped 9 1-2 points to 140.

Weekly trade reviews were again of optimistic tenor with a broadening of demand in Mercantile lines.

Interest was manifested in the further imports of British gold by way of Canada, but bankers identified with the transaction declined to disclose the amount of the gold and securities involved. Demand sterling broke to the new low record of 4.62 1-2. Rates on Paris and Rome also were weaker.

Bond dealings were light, with a lower by 1-4 to 1-2 per cent, on call during the week.

COTTON GOODS REVIEW.

Market Showed Improvement, With Some Slight Recovery of Prices.

New York, Aug. 28.—The tone of the cotton goods market showed improvement following an easing in the tension of international complications and there was some slight recovery in prices asked for wide print cloths and brown sheetings. Trade is still of a hand-to-mouth character on staples, most jobbers being content to order in goods as they need them for immediate re-shipment.

New prices named on percales for spring show great irregularity owing to dye-stuffs scarcity, solid and dark colors being from 1-2c to 3-4c a yard higher than goods in white grounds. Many substitute cloths are being offered to replace those dyed with coal tar products. Additional curtailment of production is reported among colored goods mills.

Export trade on cotton duck holds well and there is a small gain reported in the domestic demand.

Prices quoted are as follows: Print cloths 28-inch 64x64s 2 1-8; 64x60s 2 7-8; 38 1-2 inch, 64x64s 3 7-8 and 4; brown sheetings, Southern standards, 6; denims 9 ounce, 14; tickings 8 ounce 11 1-2; standard prints 5 1-4; staple ginghams 6 1-4; dress ginghams 9 1-4.

240,000 Persons In Wilmington

Would make the city one of the largest in the South. That is the total number of passengers carried on the elevators of the new Murchison Building since the building opened about a year ago. These elevators have, in that time, traveled a distance of 15,200 miles. They have made 468,000 round trips to the 10th floor. An average of 750 persons pass through this building every business day in the year. These facts mean service to the tenant. It means that if your office was in this building, your name on your door and on the building directory would be seen by these 750 persons. Before you begin another renting year in your present quarters, find out for yourself the advantages to be enjoyed in this modern office building. The reasonable rents make it possible for any individual or firm to consider taking space in the Murchison Building. Rents $12.00 and up. Our Renting Agent in Room No. 316 will give you further information.
